

No Compromise On Anti-Trust Acts, Cummings Tells Concerns

Attorney General Won't Consider Any Consent Decree

CLINGS TO COURSE O'Mahoney Fears Effect Of Revision on Business

Washington—(P)—Attorney General Cummings notified three major automobile companies and associated finance firms today that he would not consider any consent decree relating to company practices which the department contends are violations of the anti-trust laws.

The attorney general's refusal to accept any compromise offers was interpreted in informed quarters to mean that the department would continue presentation to a federal grand jury at Milwaukee, Wis., of its findings regarding the firms.

The grand jury has been considering the case since Sept. 23.

The grand jury presentation followed a department investigation of alleged "dealer coercion" and other practices in connection with the financing of automobile purchases by financing companies affiliated with General Motors, Chrysler corporation and the Ford Motor company.

The investigation included a study of purportedly accepted profits included in financing charges.

Firms' Proposal

The compromise proposals were made in October, Cummings said, by representatives of the manufacturers and the finance companies. They requested conferences, he said, on the possibility of drafting a consent decree which would enjoin the companies in the future from practices to which the department objected.

In return, the department was asked to cease its criminal proceedings.

The department agreed to the conferences, Cummings said, but no agreement was reached.

The grand jury has been in recess several weeks but will reconvene Dec. 13. A report is expected on that date as to its findings on evidence submitted by Russell Hardy, a special assistant to Cummings, and other government attorneys.

Cummings listed the companies involved, in addition to the three manufacturing corporations, as: Commercial Investment Trust; Universal Credit company, a subsidiary of Commercial Investment Trust; General Motors Acceptance company, a subsidiary of General Motors corporation; and the Commercial Credit company.

Widow of Sleuth Witness at Trial Of 4 Chicagoans

Ballistics Expert Says Kalamyer's Gun Killed Officer

Milwaukee—(P)—The widow of a slain detective was called today to testify in the trial of four Chicagoans charged with her husband's murder when he and fellow policemen broke up an attempt to rob the Luick Dairy company's safe.

Mrs. Raabe, dressed in black and surrounded by her six small children, took a seat in the front row to await summons to the witness stand. It was her first appearance at the trial.

Prof. J. H. Mathews, University of Wisconsin ballistics expert, testified yesterday that bullets which killed Raabe in the Nov. 2 gunfight came from pistols which the state alleges were owned by Michael Kalamyer, one of the defendants.

Mathews also said a bullet which physicians removed from Kalamyer's back had come from the gun of the slain officer.

Police charge Kalamyer shot Raabe when officers frustrated an attempted safe robbery at the Luick Dairy company Nov. 2. Being tried on first degree murder counts with Kalamyer are Charles Carney, Patrick Connolly and Fred Young.

Found In Ash Heap

The two guns from which Mathews said the fatal shots were fired were found in an ash heap behind the Luick company plant the day after the shooting. A guard and a nurse who attended Kalamyer, found wounded in a downtown apartment Nov. 3, testified he told of throwing the guns away in his flight from the Luick company.

Mathews, making his identification of the guns and the bullets, presented the circuit court jurors with enlarged photographs showing the comparison of markings on bullets taken from the slain policeman's body and lead slugs fired for test purposes from the guns—a .45 caliber automatic and a .38 revolver.

Mathews' testimony followed defense strategy indications it would contend police killed Raabe.

Self-Defense Plea At Slaying Trial

Lee Will Admit Shooting Of Thornberg, Counsel Says

Milwaukee—(P)—Counsel for Ernie B. Lee, 33, announced today that his client, on trial charged with first degree murder, would admit the shooting of James Thornberg, 42, and plead self-defense.

The announcement came after the state rested its case.

Just before closing its testimony, the state read into the record a deathbed statement in which Thornberg accused Lee of shooting him following an argument which developed when Thornberg ordered Lee to stop molesting a woman tenant in Thornberg's flat building.

Earlier, the state offered an alleged confession by Lee in which he was quoted as saying:

"He (Thornberg) started after me and I got scared. Then he said a few pretty rough words. I shot at him three times. The first two times I shot to scare him, I didn't mean to kill him."

Beloit Man Is Killed In Accidental Shooting

Beloit—(P)—A gunshot wound in the neck proved fatal last night to Earl Robinson, 33, Beloit. Deputy Coroner H. A. Schultz said a faulty firing mechanism on the .22 caliber rifle Robinson was carrying caused the gun to discharge accidentally.

4 Wisconsin Residents Die As Homes Burn

Two Milwaukee Women Lose Lives When Cottage Is Destroyed

2ND TRAGEDY ON FARM

Elderly Brother and Sister Perish in Fire Near Galesville

Milwaukee—(P)—An elderly woman and her daughter died today in a fire which destroyed their cottage and burned out two neighboring dwellings.

The generalissimo's departure from Nanking in the face of the advancing Japanese army, these authorities reasoned, likely would cause subordinates to undertake whatever settlement was obtainable. (Chiang and Madame Chiang were reported to have left Nanking by air on Tuesday.)

This possibility would lead to a new government, recognized by Japan and eclipsing Chiang.

Nanking—(P)—Chinese troops blew up bridges and leveled village walls in Nanking's eastern suburbs today in an effort to destroy all possible cover Japanese attackers could use in a frontal assault.

The capital was weakened to the thunder of artillery.

Despite the imminence of attack, authorities maintained good order. There was a steady stream of civilians to a semi-safety zone. Military defense preparations were far advanced, obviating any possible last minute panic.

Gunboats Move

During the night, the British gunboats Cricket and Scarab moved a mile and a half up the Yangtze to avoid the consequences of expected Japanese bombardment of the Nanking band. Attacks on British ships at Wuhu Sunday and almost daily bombardment of Pukow, across the river from Nanking, prompted the move.

The United States gunboat Guam was ordered to Wuhu because of increasing danger to American lives and property there. Battle lines of the two warring factions approached closer to Wuhu, Yangtze river port 60 miles south and slightly west of Nanking.

Determined to Stay

Thus far the daily Japanese aerial attacks have not directly affected Americans at Wuhu but have damaged British property. Twenty-four Americans were reported at Wuhu and the staff of the American Mission was said to be determined to remain.

Determined to destroy everything which might afford shelter to Japanese, Chinese yesterday burned villages and farmhouses wholesale. More houses were destroyed by Chinese troops than by Japanese airplanes in a hundred bombardments of the Nanking area.

Quitting Nanking's walls, only national members, educational institutions and expensive suburban residences by government officials escaped burning.

Warn Foreigners

Shanghai—(P)—Japanese ministry authorities tonight warned all foreigners and Chinese noncombatants to evacuate beleaguered Nanking as quickly as possible.

Through Siamas Okamoto, Japanese consul general at Shanghai, the authorities requested representatives of foreign powers, including the United States, to inform their respective nationals of the impending struggle in the evacuated capital.

United States Consul General Clarence E. Gauss transmitted the Japanese warning to American diplomats.

Dodd Quits Post As Ambassador

Says He Met 'Real Discouragements' During Work in Berlin

Berlin—(P)—Ambassador William E. Dodd, whose resignation has just been made public, said today he had met with "real discouragements" during his tour of duty here.

Regarding his official work here, he said in a statement he was satisfied he had "sent correct reports" to Washington.

(It became known yesterday that Dodd had submitted his resignation as ambassador, effective in January, 1938. His withdrawal caused no surprise, as nazis in authority have openly regarded him persona non grata because of his attitude toward them.)

(Hugh R. Wilson, assistant secretary of state, was understood to be in line to succeed Dodd, who became ambassador to Berlin in June 1933.)

Dodd said he intended to resume work on a history of the old south but would not take any particular professorship in America, as he has reached the retiring age.

(Before his appointment as ambassador, Dodd was a professor of history at the University of Chicago, where he was regarded as an authority of the old south.)

Milk Wagon Horse Runs Down. Kills Deaf Mute

Milwaukee—(P)—William J. O'Neill, 36, a deaf mute, was fatally injured last night when he was run down by a frightened milk wagon horse. Both his legs were broken.

The horse started on its mad gallop while the driver, August Gieser, was delivering milk. Another driver for the same dairy stopped the horse after a gallop of several blocks.

O'Neill lived in LaCrosse until about 20 years ago. A brother, Joseph, and two sisters, Mrs. Daisy Boutler and Mrs. May Schwanbauer reside in LaCrosse.

Haiti's President Says 8,000 Slain On Dominican Soil

Port-au-Prince, Haiti—(P)—President Stenio Vincent, in an exclusive interview at the Haitian palace today, estimated that 8,000 Haitians have been slain on Dominican soil since October.

He declared these slayings were "definitely and positively not a border incident, but the assassination of Haitians on Dominican soil far beyond the Haitian-Dominican border."

It was the first time the Haitian president has discussed the Haitian-Dominican trouble with a representative of the foreign press and the first time the official Haitian version has been made public.

(Early reports seeping out of the island on which the two embroiled countries are neighbors had placed the number killed at about 5,000. This figure was the estimate of Haiti's foreign minister, George Leger, in discussing the trouble with the United States and other countries.)

The killings, according to Leger, occurred when the Dominican government, after revocation of permits to Haitian laborers to work in the Dominican Republic's cane fields, ordered a roundup of Haitians to be expelled from Dominican territory.)

The killings, according to Leger, occurred when the Dominican government, after revocation of permits to Haitian laborers to work in the Dominican Republic's cane fields, ordered a roundup of Haitians to be expelled from Dominican territory.)

The fire was reported at 3:41 a. m. Whipped by a strong, snow-laden wind, the flames spread so rapidly more firefighting equipment was summoned. The blaze was not extinguished until after the house on the north and that on the south of the Foug house were burned.

Mrs. Foug, a widow, and her daughter apparently were asleep when the fire broke out. Firemen recovered their bodies.

The fire's cause was not determined immediately.

FARMHOUSE TRAGEDY

Galesville, Wis.—(P)—Mary Larkin, 74, and her 73-year-old brother, Michael, burned to death last night when fire razed their farm home.

Michael was still alive when neighbors, attracted by the flames' glare, reached the farm. He died on the way to a hospital. The elderly couple lived alone on the farm.

Neither had married. Both had lived virtually all their lives in the remodeled log house which was Larkin's birthplace. The farm lies in the Little Tamarack valley, five miles west of here.

The fire started in the kitchen, which was blazing furiously when neighbors arrived. They could see Miss Larkin, who apparently had retired, lying on a mattress near the kitchen stove. Fire prevented them from reaching her.

The neighbors said Larkin was lying near the kitchen door, apparently having collapsed while attempting to escape.

Despite efforts of neighbors to hold the fire in check, the flames spread to the rest of the house before the Galesville Fire department arrived.

Coroner J. E. Rhode said no inquest would be held.

Mediation Attempt Is Seen by Tokio Official

Tokio—(P)—A Japanese foreign office spokesman hinted today that the United States and three other powers were attempting to mediate the Chinese-Japanese war.

"Japan is waiting to hear the results," he said.

Meanwhile, Tokio clung to the hope that China would sue for peace with the fall of her evacuated capital, Nanking. With Japanese columns assaulting Nanking, Tokio was surprised that China still was silent on the question of peace terms.

While representatives of the war and navy offices conferred at the foreign office regarding the Japanese course of action when and if Nanking is taken, the foreign office spokesman said:

"The United States, England, Germany and Italy who have large interests in China may well be working toward peace. Japan is waiting to hear the results."

Mrs. Osa Johnson Asks Half Million in Suit

Los Angeles—(P)—Mrs. Osa Johnson filed suit against Western Air Express and the United Airports Co. of California yesterday for $502,539 damages for the death of her husband, Martin Johnson, noted explorer, in an airplane crash.

The Johnsons were flying here for a lecture when the airplane crashed on a mountain peak near Saugus, Calif.

Mrs. Johnson said she would file a separate suit for injuries she received in the crash.

House Group Drops Proposal to Tax Income of State, Municipal Workers

Washington—(P)—A house tax subcommittee abandoned today proposals for federal taxation of income of state and municipal employees and interest on federal, state and municipal securities now tax exempt.

"The subcommittee agreed," said Chairman Vinson (D-Ky.) "that in view of the supreme court decision on Monday no recommendation would be made along either line."

The court decision held that Washington and West Virginia might tax gross income received by contractors for building locks and dams for the federal government.

Some committeemen said the decision had "thrown cold water" on the idea that state and municipal employees might be subjected to tax and that tax-exempt interest might be tapped for revenue.

Snow, Sub-Zero Wave Predicted For City Tonight

Winter Weather Hits Nation's Upper Half: 13 Above Here Today

Winter let go with a looping punch that landed on the upper half of the United States today, jarring Appleton and vicinity with cold weather and blustering flurries of snow.

Snow and even colder temperatures, probably below zero, are feared for this area tonight and tomorrow. For the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark recorded in the city was 20 degrees and the lowest, at 4 o'clock this morning, 10.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the thermometer at the Post-Crescent building registered 13 degrees above and a raw northwest wind was sweeping across the city.

The weather bureau at Milwaukee sent out a warning today to shippers in the north and northwestern parts of the state that tonight's minimum might reach 10 below. Sub-zero readings were taken in northwestern states last night.

Minimum temperatures in various sections of Wisconsin last night were: Milwaukee 14, Superior-Duluth 2, Green Bay 16, La Crosse 10, Madison 12, Park Falls 4, Wausau 12.

A cold wave advanced today southward over the Rocky and great plains region to eastern Colorado and Kansas and eastward to the upper Mississippi valley, according to Associated Press reports.

Ten deaths were attributed to the weather. Five in the south were reported from exposure. Two children died in Western Pennsylvania in coasting accidents. A Pittsburgh man collapsed and died from the cold.

Zero temperatures prevailed from the Kansas-Nebraska boundary today and most of Iowa northward, with 26 below at Casper, Wyo., the coldest reporting spot in the nation.

Over most of the southeast and in much of the Ohio valley, however, temperatures were higher than reported yesterday.

Heavy frost occurred in Florida, excepting the extreme southern part, last night. There was precipitation over a considerable area of the gulf states.

Valley City, N. D., recorded 16 below zero yesterday.

Mayor 'Bossy' Gillis Defeated in Election

Newburyport, Mass.—(P)—Newburyport's voters sent a crestfallen Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis back to his gasoline pumps today.

The usually loquacious three-term mayor was silent in his defeat.

The former City Solicitor James F. Carey, son of a Newburyport mayor 25 years ago, was elected in his stead.

The vote in the election was: Carey 4,336; Gillis, 2,411.

During his administration Gillis refereed wrestling bouts, became involved in weekly wrangles with city officials and threatened last summer to pasture cows on the high school lawn to cut the grass without cost.

Commission Rules Extra Burden Must Not Be Put on Subscribers

Madison—(P)—The public service commission reaffirmed today a previous ruling that the Wisconsin Telephone company cannot shift to its subscribers a $500,000 special tax levied on exchange operations by the 1937 legislature for old age pension purposes.

The company proposed to increase the exchange rates charged 300,000 customers 4.4 per cent. Its application first was denied Aug. 17. The company then asked for a rehearing.

In refusing to reconsider the commission said the company also paid a special tax of $180,000 on its long distance business but did not propose to shift that sum to the long distance users.

The vote was tied up with the general legislation in which the commission ordered a permanent $800,000 annual reduction in utility's exchange rates. That order and others for temporary reductions while the investigation was in progress have been appealed to Dane county circuit court.

The company contended in its tax shifting application that estimates show its 1937 income will fall below the estimate made by the commission in the general rate reduction order. The commission maintained the company had made a provisional estimate which is apt to understate the actual revenues it will receive.

In Ford Company Area

Detroit—(P)—A dozen state policemen assigned as "observers" were on duty today in the Ford Motor company area where the United Automobile Workers threatened to distribute union pamphlets in defiance of an order by Mayor John L. Carey of Dearborn.

Carey designated the area as one of congested traffic and forbade the union activity.

Charging Mayor Carey with issuing an "illegal edict," Larry Davidson, union attorney, said he was ready to file a complaint with Governor Frank Murphy asking Carey's removal if he "persists in such violations." Davidson said he would accuse Carey of "misconduct in office."

All Evidence Completed in Judge's Trial

Wickham Still Considering Defense Motion For Nonsuit

RECESS IS CALLED

Announcement Awaited as To Whether Case Will Reach Jury

Waukesha, Wis.—(P)—Both state and defense concluded their presentation of evidence at noon today in the trial of Municipal Judge David M. Evans on charges of violation of the corrupt practices act in the conduct of his campaign for election last spring.

Circuit Judge James Wickham of Eau Claire, still holding under consideration a motion for nonsuit by Defense Attorney Walter D. Corrigan, Sr., called a recess until 2 o'clock a. m. Whether the case will be given to the jury will be announced then.

Judge Evans and Harold Orvis, his former clerk of court, the latter in the action against the jurist, were the principal witnesses in the final testimony. After Evans testified that although Orvis had given him $75 for campaign expenses last February, he had returned the money, Orvis called adversely, denied that Evans had returned the amount.

"Knew He Was Crooked"

W. G. Sullivan, a defense attorney, asked Orvis if it wasn't true that he instituted proceedings against Judge Evans because he was angry at losing his clerkship.

"No," Orvis replied. "I knew for two months that he (Evans) was crooked."

Fred Zickrick, an insurance man, whom the state alleges managed Evans' campaign for election, testified he was in the jurist's office when Evans called Orvis and verified facts which he published in a telegram denying there were discrepancies in his court record.

Orvis has denied he allowed his name to be connected with the telegram, a form which was distributed to the doorsteps of Waukesha voters the night before the election, and for the purpose of contradicting a front page editorial in a Waukesha daily charging Evans with discrepancies in the court record.

Evans, on the stand, discussed Orvis' departure from office, and said he had heard reports in the campaign that Orvis was working against him, and that Orvis admitted it to him. Evans said he had no complaint with Orvis' work, but that he was not satisfied with his conduct.

Orvis asked the chance to resign. Evans said, and he permitted the resignation rather than discredit him. Evans said to the time (about May 3) Orvis told him, "this will cost you a thousand dollars."

Phone Company Can't Shift Tax

Commission Rules Extra Burden Must Not Be Put on Subscribers

Sleeping Boy Killed As Plane Hits Houses

Austin, Tex.—(P)—An airplane which plunged "like a streak of lightning" into two houses killed a sleeping 2-year-old boy and a Mexican army air corps pilot in northwest Austin's residential section last night.

Leonard Albright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer D. Albright, and Captain F. A. Avellino, 22, were killed when the plane ploughed into the Albright home. Three-year-old Spencer Albright was injured.

Mrs. Albright, who had just put the children to bed, was stunned.

Albright, an instructor in government at the University of Texas, and a friend, Dave Peeler, were in the front room and were not hurt.

Hudson Anderson and Homer Sanders said they saw the ship plunge "like a streak of lightning" when its motor cut out at about 100 feet.

Justice Duquaine passed sentence after a trial in which a jury convicted Justice Gould of stealing a supply of wood estimated to be worth $20.

Gould testified he did not know to whom the wood belonged, although he realized it was not his.

Gould told the jury that if he goes as it appears on the surface, it is a matter for impeachment, in my opinion."

Neutrality Bloc Seeks Roosevelt View on Revision

Decides to Approach President 'in Cooperative Spirit'

Washington—(P)—Members of the neutrality bloc in congress have decided, an informed person said today, to approach President Roosevelt "in a cooperative spirit" to seek his views on possible revision of the neutrality law.

"We want the president to understand that we wish to cooperate with him in doing whatever we can to keep the United States at peace," said one senator who preferred not to be quoted by name.

"We want to ask him to give us his reasons for not invoking the neutrality act in the Sino-Japanese war. Perhaps they are such that the act should not be invoked. And perhaps he has some suggestions for a revision of the law."

If the law were invoked, an embargo automatically would result on shipments of war supplies to countries formally decreed to be at war. Other purchases by belligerents in the United States could be put on a "cash and carry" basis.

Not Discriminatory

Senator Nye (R-N. D.), a leader of the bloc, said in a radio address last night this nation should not consider claims that invocation of the law would injure China and indirectly help Japan.

"What our neutrality law seeks to do is treat both sides alike," he said, "with all sides on notice in advance of what our rules will be."

Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.) said that in his opinion the bloc's future policy would depend greatly on the president's explanation of the background.

Nye, LaFollette and the following attended an informal "neutrality" meeting: Senators Clark (D-Mo.), Lee (D-Okl.), Vandenberg (R-Mich.), Capper (R-Kans.) and Representatives Voorhis (D-Calif.), Case (R-S. D.), and Koppelman (D-Conn.).

Wants Committee To Probe Actions Of Federal Judge

Washington—(P)—Senator Truman (D-Mo.) suggested today that the house judiciary committee "look into" the activities of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago in the 1925-26 receivership of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul rail road with a view to possible impeachment proceedings.

Truman, acting chairman of the senate railroad finance investigation committee, proposed the inquiry after committee investigators had submitted evidence which they said showed Wilkerson had "secretly received" arguments in behalf of one plan of organizing the road "months in advance" of formal consideration of the plan.

Wilkerson had charge of the court proceedings in connection with the railroad receivership.

"This is a matter the judiciary committee of the house ought to look into," Truman asserted. "If it goes as it appears on the surface, it is a matter for impeachment, in my opinion."

The Answer Is 'Yes. It Was.'

"Is your inner craving satisfied?" asked a radiator the other day just after dinner. We'd had grapefruit, mockturtle soup. Then baked bluefish, a crisp salad introducing a 2-pound porterhouse steak smothered in onions, walled by tender string beans and flanked by two big loaves topped with butter and paprika. For dessert two fourths of a deep-dish apple pie encased by thick cream and put to rest with a sip of Java and a Corona-Corona. Honestly, our "inner craving was satisfied" almost as well as was the friend who ran this classified want-ad in The Post-Crescent:

National Leaders Express Approval Of Du Pont's Plan

Lewis and Green Withhold Comment on Expansion Suggestions

New York — The Lamont DuPont's industrial expansion program to create possibly 3,000,000 jobs won approval on the whole today from prominent figures in the nation who commented on the proposals the manufacturer made to attack unemployment.

The president of E. I. DuPont de Nemours and company suggested the possibility of creating work for 3,000,000 by a planned industrial expansion financed to the extent of $25,000,000,000 by industry itself contingent upon full cooperation from the government by assurance it would give business a "fair opportunity."

"This could be done, he told the National Association of Manufacturers yesterday, by a government pledge of tax rate stabilization, of 'fair laboring conditions' over a long period, and of 'legal rules' under which industry operates, subject only to 'unmistakable public demand for amendment.'"

Many Give Approval

Industrial executives who voiced opinions after hearing the address were virtually unanimous in approving DuPont's analysis of the economic problem and a method of attack. Heads of large corporations, several congressional leaders, economists and a labor leader joined with those who heard it in praising the address. Some expressed complete approval, others in part. A banker was skeptical and labor's most prominent leaders, John L. Lewis and William Green, withheld comment.

In the halls of congress, Chairman Doughton (D-N. C.) of the house ways and means committee said "DuPont's suggestions are to be praised."

Representative Doughton said "we already are trying our best to stabilize tax law so that no corporation, partnership, or individual need have any fear of expanding business because of unjust, unreasonable or inequitable taxes."

Let Them Go Ahead

Senator Norris (A-Nebr.) said "DuPont has a fine plan. Let them (industry) go ahead with it. They don't need any government help to do it."

The only labor leader represented in the comment—Thomas G. Gillers, Pittsburgh, first district president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers said labor leaders would cooperate with "any kind of a sensible plan if they could feel sure men like DuPont would meet them half way," but said the industrial leader had proposed no detailed plan of financing the program he suggested.

A former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, expressed agreement "in principle" with the speaker.

"It is my belief too, that there should not be a new law passed at every congress to further a political ambition. In the final analysis let business lead and assure it that it will have some stability."

North, South Clash Again On Proposed Legislation

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY

Washington (AP)—The 1937 congress is getting a taste of sectional controversies which smack of the issues that once led America into civil war.

Again, a question of dollars and cents is paramount. The north and the south, the east and the west, all want to be sure of their economic places in the sun.

But now, as in antebellum days, there is a moral side issue besides. Then it was slavery. Today it's lynch law.

Two highly important pieces of legislation before congress can illustrate the main squabble. They are—

First, the wage and hour bill. This plan would guarantee workers a wage of at least 40 cents an hour in a 40 hour week. Northern congressmen, especially those who have a heavy labor vote in their districts, are all for it. Southern congressmen have bottled up the scheme in the house rules committee.

Why?

One answer appears in a department of labor survey. This little plomatic representatives at Nanking and informed Washington of the developments. There were 17 Americans in Nanking.

The Japanese said they considered the former capital "one large fortification" and therefore could not expect Chinese reinforcements and therefore the amount of safety of the evacuated refugee zone.

Japanese Warning

Thousands of Chinese, who took no active part in the defense of the city, were housed in the refugee district.

"Persons there should evacuate," the Japanese spokesman said. "If war erupts the area the Japanese cannot be held responsible."

While indicating that a major struggle for the former capital was imminent, the Japanese said today that no major developments in that sector, about 120 miles west and slightly north of Shanghai.

Reports through Japanese channels said today the Japanese command would issue an ultimatum demanding surrender of beleaguered Nanking to avoid a heavy toll of life and possible destruction of the city.

The reports declared the ultimatum would ask Chinese General Tang Shen-Chi, commander of the Nanking garrison, to surrender the city and 300,000 Chinese soldiers. Japanese authorities were said to

Repulsed at 2 Gates

Japanese columns, Chinese asserted, were repulsed in attempts to storm two of Nanking's gates with 1,000 casualties.

A third column, the Chinese advised, was held up at Mulikwan and failed to reach Nanking. Some 75,000 Japanese were gathered about the city, where approximately 200,000 Chinese faced them.

In Nanking itself, a safety zone established by American and other foreigners flew distinctive flags. All Chinese troops were said to have evacuated from the area, removing their anti-aircraft guns from the vicinity of the United States embassy.

(At Tientsin, in North China, a Japanese economic adviser declared the Japanese, after restoration of peace, probably would levy a heavy indemnity on China. He suggested that Japan "might accept control of China's railways for the next ten years or operate the railways until the indemnity is paid.")

(In Tokyo, a Japanese foreign office spokesman said the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Italy "may well be working toward peace" in the Far Eastern conflict and added that "Japan is waiting to hear the result." He said that in any negotiations between China and Japan, China must take the initiative.)

Foreign reports from Nanking were that Chinese troops in the city were burning several buildings in the capital's environs to keep them from being used by Japanese troops. Military supplies and equipment also were said to have been destroyed by the virtually surrounded Chinese.

With A Difference

Happily, there is one important difference between sectionalism three-quarters of a century ago, and sectionalism in this industrial era.

No hot heads are going to try to secede in this day of complex economies. Every section of the United States needs the protection of every other section. John Q. Public will see to it that his congressman acts accordingly.

Swanson Gives Wilson Pupils Outline of Conservation Work

Donald Newton was elected president of the Junior Izaak Walton league of Wilson Junior High school at a meeting Tuesday. Donald Patterson was named vice president, Alice Seeger, secretary, and Gerald Welch, treasurer.

"Keep the Forest Spirit" was chosen as the league's motto for this year and the ethics of a good sportsman were adopted. Rules to follow when in the forest follow: give nature a chance; take out of the forest only what you need; put camp fires out with water; leave a clean and sanitary camp; observe state fish and game laws; and cooperate with game wardens and forest rangers.

R. L. Swanson, faculty adviser, gave the new members a background in the work of the conservation department and exhibited maps showing locations of fire ranger districts, game refuges, CCC camps, fish hatcheries, and state and national forests.

He said that in 1870, Wisconsin had 80 million acres of forests which were reduced to two million acres by 1932. The state has 14 fish hatcheries.

State and national forests listed by Swanson include Nicolet, Chequamegon, Northern State, Brule river, Flambeau, American Legion and the Kettle Moraine forest.

To acquaint new members with the work of the conservation department, Swanson said, "The conservation department maintains 1,300 miles of roads and trails, 112 fire lookouts and 2,000 miles of telephone lines to isolated places. Last year the department distributed over 13 million young trees, 573 million fish, 20,000 pheasants and 75,000 pheasant eggs."

Statistics show that the department established 334 fish refuges last year, 30,000 winter game and birds feeding places and minnow refuges, removed over six million pounds of rough fish from Wisconsin waters and made 3,782 arrests with convictions reaching 91 per cent.

Plans for the winter months will be discussed at a meeting of the league Tuesday. Active members are Oscar Boldt, Robert Boldt, Clifford Brinkman, John Davis, Maurice Dier, Clarence Eichstadt, Wilbur Eichstadt, Robert Gill, Harold Giesbach, Kenneth Greens, Cyril Griesbach, Arnold Hefty, Joyce Kimball, Olsson Knoke, Donald Kruckenberg, Duane LaBudde, Walter Lane, Nathan Langdon, Geraldine Lemke, Wilbert Lenhart, Gordon Lillge, Keith McCluskey, Anne Millard, Thomas Millard, William Nass, Donald Newton, John Nofke, Robert Olson, Eugene Parker, Donald Patterson, Richard Piette, Harley Reinhold, Harvey Reinholz, Chester Rhodes, Sherman Schneider, Janetta Schroeder, George Scott, Alice Seeger, Kenneth Tietz, Roman Tschant, Alvin Viet, Gerald Welch, Emil Witter, Ralph Woelher, Donald Kurry and Charles Buxton.

Kimberly Tax Rate Is Fixed at $22 At Board Meeting

Higher County and State Levies Bring Boost of $1 Per $1,000

Kimberly — The tax rate for 1938 was set at $22 per $1,000, an increase of $1 per $1,000, at a village board meeting Monday evening.

Despite the fact that the local tax levy dropped from $22.964 to $20.397 during 1937, a reduction of more than $2,000, the county and state taxes have been boosted from $35,378.73 to $45,939.99 which makes an additional $10,561.46 for Kimberly village. There also is an increase of $2,050 in the school assessment for 1938.

A communication was read by the clerk in answer to one regarding the request of William Van Zeeland, local garageman, for permission to use the frame dance hall of Andrew De Leeuw for a storage building for cars during the winter months, providing he would drain the gasoline tanks and remove the batteries. The communication stated that this request could not be granted as it would be almost impossible to have the gasoline tanks drained completely. Therefore the request was refused.

The board approved of sending Martin Vandenberg, assessor of Madison, Thursday and Friday of this week to attend the assessor's training course. A letter was received from the League of Municipalities extending this invitation.

President Lang asserted that beginning Jan. 1, relief orders will be given to business firms according to their personal property investment. The board agreed that it did not seem fair to give these orders equally when one business place would have an investment considerably larger than another and it was brought out that from the first of the year relief orders will be based on the personal investment of the business man.

The Vandenberg Insurance agency was again given the renewal of the treasurer's bond.

The Boy Scout organization, which is now occupying a room in the new village hall, has been given permission to use the old village hall for its permanent headquarters.

The addition to the village hall garage is being planned by the village board and is expected to get underway by Dec. 15. The new structure will have a basement and additional storage space to house the large village truck and other village equipment. The labor will be done by local workmen.

Bills and claims amounting to $8,828.02 were read and approved. The treasurer's report was read by Harry Van Himbergen, Jr., and placed on file.

The court of honor scheduled for Wednesday evening at the village hall by Troop 19 of the Boy Scouts has been postponed to the following Wednesday due to the high school banquet on that evening.

Mrs. August Mauthe has been taken to St. Elizabeth hospital where she underwent a major operation Tuesday.

Decision Affirmed in Insurance Policy Case

The Wisconsin Supreme court yesterday affirmed a decision of a lower court ordering reinstatement of an insurance policy held by Charles R. Crowell, Fremont. Crowell was represented by Harry A. Schlinz, guardian, who brought action against the Equitable Life Assurance society through Benton, Bosser, Becker and Parnell, attorneys. The lower court held that Crowell had cancelled and surrendered a policy while his mental condition was such that he did not understand his act and ordered the policy reinstated and benefits from the time of cancellation in 1934 paid.

Russia Still Has Class Divisions

"Russia is supposed to be a land of classless society, but high prices and the lack of purchasing power are rapidly determining upper and lower strata," Dr. Samuel D. Rosen, author, lecturer and American railroad executive, said in a talk at Lawrence college convocation yesterday in Memorial chapel.

In order to promote production, prices are held up, especially on staples and clothing. Dr. Rosen said. Inadequate railroad facilities, poverty and unsanitary conditions in the markets were conditions the lecturer observed on a recent trip to Russia.

"But Russia had the best harvest in its history last summer," the speaker said. "And despite reports to the contrary, family life has not been disintegrated. The mothers love their children just as much as ever."

One of the most ruinous forces in the Soviet state is fear, Dr. Rosen said, a fear that is found among all peoples in countries ruled by a dictator.

Country's Task Is Finding Markets, Lawrence States

Political Problem of Hour Is Increasing Home Foreign Trade

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Every year about this time the National Association of Manufacturers has a meeting and speeches are made telling the government what's wrong and urging that corrective measures be taken to improve the economic lot of the country.

This year's addresses differ somewhat from previous years in that a much more understanding note is sounded and there is keener recognition of the importance of cooperation between government and business.

But there is nevertheless still a gap which makes the NAM meetings less effective than they might be as moulders of opinion, and that is the tendency on the part of business men to see public questions only through the eyes of the economic forces in which they themselves play such a dominant part.

Government, on the other hand, must view public questions in a broad policy sense, weighing carefully the fact that the power to sustain government comes from the people themselves and that, in a system where universal suffrage exists, it is not easy to accept one viewpoint—the business idea, for instance—and exclude all the others.

The value of the NAM session is, of course, that business men do give expression to what they deem to be the prime needs of the nation to achieve economic stability, and just now the outcry is that government should do its utmost to remove the uncertainties that have led to a loss of confidence on the part of the business community. Some of the points stressed, such as revision of the tax structure, are in process of being accepted now by government, and there can be no doubt that the protests by business men have been influential in creating this trend here.

But the basic problem—one might almost say, in a large sense, the real political problem of the hour—is seldom touched upon by the exponents of any of the group philosophies. Labor rarely talks about it and capital is hesitant to offer a formula. It concerns the matter of increasing America's home market and her foreign market.

Obviously, with a productive capacity unparalleled in the world, the task of the United States is to find the markets, which is but another way of saying jobs must be created and purchasing power increased either at home or abroad so that increased production may be consumed.

Where shall the increased volume of transactions come from to consume the output of the American productive machine? Now a single suggestion on this point seems to have been made by the speakers at the NAM, and the inference is left that the business men of America are quite content with the home market and that they feel jobs will be created and goods will be sold within the United States if only the government reverses some of its social or fiscalistic policies, as the case may be.

But officials of the Roosevelt administration, though conceding that they look at things through political eyes just as business men view things through economic spectacles, declare some of the social controls advanced are necessary in order to ration or divide the existing home market among the different classes and that very little increase can be expected from abroad.

Sometimes it is difficult to understand why many business men who are professed opponents of the New Deal are not really champions of the Roosevelt policies. For the business men who believe in an intensified drive to increase home markets will find, on looking beneath the surface, that the administration here believes the same thing, notwithstanding Mr. Roosevelt's occasional gestures of sympathy for the Cordell Hull policies.

In European countries where fascism has flourished, the national objective has been self-sufficiency and a rationing of the home market. Secretary Wallace wants a crop control measure to regulate the production of the farm to meet the needs of the home market, and he places little dependence on export. Mr. Roosevelt wants the wage and hour bill passed because he thinks it will increase the purchasing power of the people in the lower brackets and he is not concerned with the fact that this will be done at the expense of the people who get wages just above the minimum.

—really a reapportionment of existing purchasing power. The whole philosophy here is that there is just enough business to divide up among existing companies and plants and that the government must do the dividing.

Business men have not offered any idea to the contrary and the notion that possibly an increased volume of transactions might come out of a stimulated world economy, with America playing a prominent part in reviving world trade, is conspicuous only by the few sympathizers which the policy has, either inside or outside of government.

Business is, therefore, arguing that there are too many controls and government is contending that the controls may perhaps be clumsily administered, but controls there must be if everybody is to have a share of whatever limited business America can do. Incidentally, instead of a free trade between our own states, tariff barriers are growing up through various guises so that, in time, states will be seeking to make themselves self-sufficient, or at least to compel discrimination against products made outside their respective boundaries.

Again the National Association of Manufacturers has met and denounced most of what the administration is doing, without offering a program that will make the American people vote to drive out of power the administration which is putting forth the controls that are criticized by the self-same business men. When the NAM acquires the broad-gauged viewpoint that government is supposed to have and sees problems from the point of view of all classes and all groups, its pronouncements will get more popular support, though, in fairness to the NAM, it must be said that there is distinct progress shown as compared with the insular viewpoints expressed in preceding years.

Appleton Citizens Don't Agree With Critic Who Dubs Air Programs 'Tripe'

Appleton residents, when interviewed on the radio likes and dislikes, decidedly disagree with a Chicago author and critic who recently characterized radio programs as "tripe."

The Chicago critic said, "In spite of its many admirable phases, the radio industry appears to be a state of chaos, or cultural anarchy, and generally satisfied with standards so mediocre they would not be tolerated in any other field." He estimated there are 17,000 programs broadcast in America daily and that of these only about two dozen are as well done as they might be.

Working on this basis, Post-Crescent reporters interviewed a number of Appleton citizens who, generally, disagreed with the critic and said they like radio programs as they were being produced today.

Here's what representative Appleton residents think about the whole thing:

H. H. Helble, Appleton High school principal, said radio presents many fine programs especially in the field of symphony music. The host of mystery stories and crime tales heard daily over the air, he classed as "detrimental to children" although they may be all right for adults. When questioned on radio as an educational medium for school children, he said the problem was "decidedly speculative."

Asked if he thought 75 per cent of air programs were "tripe," Joseph Shields, high school coach, said, "No. When I sit down to listen to the radio in the evening, I can always find plenty of programs that are entertaining. If a person doesn't like a program, he can always turn it off."

Many 'First Class'

There are many radio programs that can be rated as first class, while there are others that would not be missed, Miss Violet Ellefson, stenographer, said. However, there are programs that are of special interest to some persons while others would not listen to them. Many good programs for women at home during the day are on the air, she said.

"I like printed matter and therefore am not a regular radio listener," Municipal Judge Thomas H. Ryan said. "I usually listen only to programs that are pointed out to me as good. The operas broadcast on Saturday afternoons are excellent."

Asked what he thought about radio programs, Russell J. Earling, register in probate, said they are so varied that one can always turn off a program he dislikes. Earling believes the sports programs to be exceptionally good.

Some Long Way From Good

"I don't think the percentage of 'tripe' radio programs is as high as 75 per cent," Sergeant Carl Radtke of the police department said, "but there are many programs that are a long way from being good. I listen to about three programs which include sports, court of human relations and police stories. Other radio programs hold little interest for me."

Myra Hagen, bookkeeper, said, "Although I never listen to the radio during the day, I don't think any program can be classified as 'tripe' because there is always some one who enjoys every kind of program. I enjoy radio."

Stephen Balliet, Appleton postmaster, "I'm not a regular listener so I can't pass judgment on all the programs. I do enjoy sports, news reports and speeches, principally. I like Charlie McCarthy."

Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said, "There's much of it that doesn't interest me, consequently, I'm not a constant listener. I like sports. I think many people should keep their radio turned off more than they do, during bridge games and visits, for example."

Would Be Easier

Mary Mortimer, secretary, thinks, "Each station should be devoted entirely to one type of program; one to jazz music, for example, another to symphony music, a third to plays. Then it would be easier for listeners to select what they want. There's a lot of 'tripe' over the radio."

Alice Mae Whittier, stenographer, said, "I think one can get tired of radio, just like anything else, but you can turn it off or on as you like. I enjoy good music and plays and they can be found on radio programs."

Mrs. Harold Heller, housewife, said, "I think programs during the day are 'tripe' except for a few stations. However, spotted through the week are programs of very excellent character, especially Saturday and Sunday programs."

May Establish New Area for Property Tax Assessments

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Redistricting of the property tax assessment areas of the state tax commission appeared likely Monday after a conference of Brown county officials with the commission.

A Brown county delegation, headed by Lewis Knuth, Wrightstown, chairman of the Brown county board, offered the commission office space and furniture in the county courthouse at Green Bay if a new property assessment district, with an office in Green Bay, can be arranged.

The Brown county group discussed with the commission the possibility of paying some of the counties from neighboring tax districts, particularly the Waushara district which now comprises ten counties, to provide a new area with headquarters in Green Bay. W. J. Conway, chairman of the tax commission, announced that a decision would be forthcoming soon.

The Northeastern state property assessment district now has its headquarters at Manitowoc, where Arthur Schroeder is the district supervisor. The district includes Brown, Manitowoc, Outagamie, Calumet, Kewaunee and Door counties. Until 1935 the district office was at Green Bay.

Discuss Aid for Potato Growers Expect to Provide Seed in Waupaca, Waushara, Portage Counties

Washington — U. S. Relief measures for potato growers of three Wisconsin counties were discussed yesterday by Badger state congressmen and representatives of the farm security and farm credit administrations.

"We are reasonably sure relief will be given to make it possible for growers in Waupaca, Waushara, and Portage counties to obtain potato seed for spring plantings," said Representative Boileau and Senators LaFollette and Duffey after the meeting.

Administration officials indicated they were considering declaring an emergency to exist in the three counties and setting up machinery for loans to growers for the purchase of seed. In some instances this might mean loans with only crop mortgages as security, depending upon the financial condition of the grower.

This year's crop was destroyed by drought and disease, the growers informed the congressmen. Their case also was presented to administration officials by George Massey, Waupaca county, E. A. Jorgenson, Waushara county, and Harry Nobles, Portage county, all county agents. Arlie Mucks, Madison, state farm security administration director, also attended the meeting.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. ELAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

Philadelphia — Scientists are using sound as a scalpel to cut out of typhoid fever vaccine the impurities that cause unpleasant after-effects.

The sound scalpel tears apart the bodies of typhoid germs. This is done by placing the germs in a solution and passing through it high-pitched, whistling sounds.

One substance separated in this way from the germs is typhoid "virulence antigen." This antigen, a protein, is the stuff that makes typhoid vaccine. The sound yields pure antigen. Chemical extraction, the usual way of obtaining the antigen, leaves impurities which have been blamed for after-effects of typhoid vaccination.

Experiments with pure sound-made antigen are under way at the Johnson Foundation and the department of biology of the University of Pennsylvania. Rabbits and other animals have been given "massive" doses of the virulence antigen, much more than would be needed to protect against typhoid. In no case have these huge doses been followed by serious reactions.

The 10 principal cotton producing states in 1936 planted 10,599,000 fewer acres to cotton than the annual average during the five years 1928-32.

Oshkosh Nursery Enters Low Bid for Landscaping

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh—Jeeke Nurseries, Oshkosh, were low bidders Monday on landscaping for the new Winnebago county courthouse grounds with a bid of $3,768.70. Other bids received were Roe Nurseries, Oshkosh, $4,123.50; Rosmussen Nurseries, Oshkosh, $4,130, and W. H. McFadden, Madison, $6,193.50.

Only $3,000 was allowed for landscaping in the general contract, A. E. Hedke, county clerk, said. A meeting of the courthouse building committee to consider bids and award the contract will be held Wednesday or Thursday.

Wrapping of Christmas Gifts Offers Opportunity To Reveal Creative Art

BY VIOLA HELLERMANN

Wrapping Christmas gifts is fast becoming a creative art. Gone are the days when the only reason for putting paper and ribbon around a package was to keep its contents a surprise, and any sort of wrapping was suitable.

Today almost as much time is spent beautifying the outside of the box as shopping for the right thing to put in it. And no wonder. Such a wide assortment of wrappings is displayed before the Christmas shoppers this year that even the most unimaginative of them must be tempted to experiment with new and novel ways of tying their packages.

There are, for instance, large silhouette seals of Santa Claus and his reindeer, of the Three Wise Men on their camels, of stars and Christmas trees, with which a person can design scenes on his packages. An attractive example of this sort of wrapping is being shown in one of the local stores. With plain blue glazed paper as a background, silver silhouettes of the Three Wise Men and silver stars were pasted on the top of the package to give it the appearance of a picture. There is no ribbon to mar the effect.

Solid colors make some of the most artistic packages. One suggestion is to use heavy gold paper with metallic green ribbon at least two inches wide. And a box wrapped in sparkling silver paper and tied with a chalk blue ribbon will be pretty sure to attract attention too under the Christmas tree.

If skirts or a ski suit are included in the presents you are giving this Christmas, there would be no more perfect way to wrap them than to use paper designed with skiers. The paper has a white background to represent snow, and the design of three skiers in colorful red and blue with silver pine trees as a background is repeated over the whole surface. Miniature ski shoes tied to the ribbon also are available.

Ornamental Gadgets

Miniature shoes are only some of the many ornamental gadgets being shown this year to make the outside of packages look "too nice to open." Because they can be used as Christmas tree ornaments after they've done their duty beautifying a box, the quaint wood carvings seen should be particularly popular. They are carved in the shape of stars and moons with baby angels on them.

Ensembles are something new this year, and they are proving extremely popular. Each ensemble package contains wrapping paper, stickers, cards and ribbon, all in matching design. Among the designs are the poinsettia cart, gay and festive, and the candle flame, a more modern design featuring blue and white and red and white stripes.

For those who want something different from the traditional red and green Christmas colors, there is

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

What to Do About the Wages and Hours Bill

Few great measures in recent years have had more indifferent support than the wages and hours bill. President Green and the American Federation of Labor do not like it at all, wish to see it defeated, and in order to defeat it are offering a substitute which comes very close to being a practical joke. Mr. Lewis of the C. I. O. has blessed the bill but with such reluctance and restraint that it looks very much as if he meant to damn it with faint praise; Mr. Lewis's lack of fervor would seem almost to support the rumor that he is favoring this labor bill not because he wants it, but as a favor to the President. Mr. Norton, the Congresswoman from New Jersey, who is in charge of the bill, is reporting it to the House with the idea of rewriting it on the floor. It is difficult to detect any great enthusiasm on the part of Secretary Perkins. There are certainly no crowds demonstrating in the streets for the passage of the bill.

All in all it looks very much as if those concerned were going ahead with it not because they really like it, but because in their disillusionment they do not know how to stop doing what they started so enthusiastically to do.

Mr. Green Wants Law For 40 Cent Minimum

By comparing the original Administration, or Black-Connelly bill, with the bill proposed by the A. F. of L. one can, I think, understand what has happened. The original bill was based on the theory that Congress could not possibly decide now what maximum hours and minimum wages should be in every section of the country for every industry which sells its goods beyond the local market. So the bill delegated the task of making these determinations and decisions to a board, in effect telling the board to make the laws that Congress could not possibly know enough to make. But when Mr. Green and a lot of other people got to thinking about this board, about the complications of its job, about the ramifications of its power, they became frightened. A board in Washington with power to fix wages in nearly every manufacturing town in the country was more of an adventure into bureaucracy than most persons wanted. So Mr. Green, in revulsion against the board, is proposing to have Congress itself fix a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for a forty-hour week, and then to let the Department of Justice enforce that rule if it can.

Provides No Defense For Changes in Dollar

Now if the Administration bill gives a dangerous and unworkable amount of discretion to the board, Mr. Green's bill is just a pious resolution, and not so pious at that. What on earth does Mr. Green mean by a statutory minimum wage of 40 cents for a forty-hour week? Does he mean that nobody anywhere may be employed in any operation which is not purely local unless he is paid at the rate of

Schneider Working To Straighten Out Extension Tangle

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton is working with REA officials here in an attempt to straighten out the extension tangle of the County Electric corporation's rural electrification project in Oconto county.

The original project, including 235 miles of power line to serve about 1000 customers, is nearing completion and the clients are wiring their premises in order to be ready to utilize the current as soon as it is turned on, officials said.

The second application, signed by 159 prospective customers, would extend the project into Marinette county. The extension would include 59.6 miles of power line at an estimated cost of $873.91 per mile.

Outlines Fascist Strategy Aiming to Bring Civil War To Its Conclusion in Spain

(Editor's note: Edward J. Neil has just finished six months with the Spanish insurgent armies. During that time he covered at first hand Generalissimo Franco's major campaigns. In the following account, written while he was vacationing in London, Neil gives an analysis of insurgent strategy to end the war.

BY EDWARD J. NEIL.

London.—(U)—The defenses of the Spanish republican government—to Generalissimo Franco's strategists—are a row of dominoes on end, ready to topple one after the other when the first is knocked over.

And the first domino is Lerida, deep in a beautiful river valley of the northeastern mountainlands about 80 air miles east of Zaragoza.

The other dominoes in order are Barcelona, Valencia and Madrid; and when the toppling starts, the strategists say, the actual fighting will be over in two months and the war cleaned up before the end of its second year. It is now in its seventeenth month.

Ranged in the bitter cold of the Aragon front between Huesca and Zaragoza a quarter of a million of Franco's insurgent soldiers are ready for a push at the first domino, Lerida, and the civil struggle is stirring again to a climax.

Ancient City

Lerida lies in the line of Franco's impending march toward Barcelona, Spanish capital, and the Mediterranean coast. It dates back to the days of the Roman empire.

In all the centuries of Spanish war history, Lerida, now a center for huge Barcelona's water and electric supplies, never has fallen without the populous seaport, only another 30 miles further east, toppling thereafter.

This is the strategists' scheme: Facing capture in Barcelona, as the "key" to the capital fell, the government of Premier Juan Negrin would flee up the Mediterranean coast and across the border into France, leaving the multi-faceted government leaderless.

Ready to Yield

Barcelona, rich and never very eager for the conflict, an industrial center with its mind on business, would capitulate—just as Bilbao surrendered, Santander gave up, and Gijon fell in the north, all before Franco's troops even reached them.

Barcelona's surrender would bring Valencia, stripped of all assistance, tumbling down, and with Valencia would come Madrid, old capital city and a symbol of devoted defense rather than a stronghold of any great military importance.

The war has changed vitally in six months. Franco's armies have swept the northwest, are by far the stronger in armament and discipline, have the active backing of Italy and Germany and no longer face the threat of French and British intervention.

Gone are the brave, dogged Basques who built an "iron ring" around Bilbao, finished are the Santanderese, and shattered are the dynamiting miners of the Asturias, the demon fighters of Spain.

And with them went the rich mining regions for which all the shooting was about: the great iron and copper deposits of the mountains around Bilbao and the huge coal mines of the Asturias. The insurgents control most of the raw materials now.

There is no question of the power, the discipline, the efficient leadership, the fighting qualities and the superb equipment of the insurgent armies. The longer the war lasts the stronger they become.

Map Prosecution Of Buckman Firm In Security Mess

Investor Clients Becoming Worried Spectators as State Plans Action

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Investor clients of B. E. Buckman and Company today became worried spectators in one of the biggest and most sensational security scandals in the state in recent years as state officials continued plans for legal action against the firm as the result of revelations in an investigation by the securities division of the state public service commission.

(About 10 Outagamie county residents have reported to District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr that they have investments with the Buckman company, Madison. Others in the county also are believed to have investments in the firm.)

Criminal prosecution of the officers of the 16-year old Madison firm which until recently had branch offices in Milwaukee, Green Bay and Eau Claire, seemed inevitable today with the release of an exhaustive indictment by the public service commission and the appointment by Governor LaFollette of counsel who will assist investors in commencing legal actions to recover the losses they have suffered and to make a report to him on the conduct of public officials in the case.

Meanwhile the books and assets of the firm were tied up as the result of an involuntary bankruptcy action in federal court here.

Governor LaFollette's action yesterday in announcing that his office will intervene in the case lent strength to the conviction that the irregularities of the Buckman firm and its agents affected citizen investors throughout the state. "I am convinced," the governor told newspapermen at a conference in his office Tuesday afternoon, "that this is a matter of state-wide concern. I have decided to appoint two special counsel who will take charge in behalf of the governor. One of these men, the governor said, will work with any one who did business with the Buckman company and wishes to institute legal action against the firm. He will assist investors in gathering evidence and in considering legal remedies. The other will investigate whether or not public authorities have been derelict, the chief executive explained.

Reveals Findings

In just about the strongest words in the dictionary, the public service commission yesterday issued a summary of its findings in the investigation which resulted in the surrender of its license by the Buckman company. The commission recommended criminal prosecution of the firm, its officers and its agents, and indignantly assailed practices of the company with its officials as "evasive, fraudulent, unfair, inequitable, wrong, brazen and heartless."

The commission's recommendation bristled with anger as it detailed the intricate security transactions of the company, transactions which included the selling of securities of doubtful worth to elderly folks in the state, old people who "were traded out of investments of life-time savings in stable and marketable securities into speculative Buckman-sponsored issues."

"We could not utter our condemnation of such practices in language that would be too severe," the commission commented.

"The evidence in this case shows that securities of a highly speculative nature were sold by agents of the B. E. Buckman and Company who ought to have known and doubtless knew, that it was unfair, inequitable, and wrong to foist securities of that nature upon any one who was in the purchasers' circumstances and situation."

Accuse George

"And the evidence shows that this was done at the instigation and by the express direction of Mr. George C. George, the vice president of the B. E. Buckman and Company. He knew the nature of the securities which he urged and incited his salesmen to sell."

"By the force of his personality he sought to imbue those salesmen with a belief in the character of those securities which they did not deserve. The evidence shows that in many instances he withheld from his salesmen important information with respect to the securities which he asked them to sell."

Significantly the commission formally found that B. E. Buckman and Company was insolvent in 1936 and 1937, and that while insolvent, its officers were paying themselves large salaries and garnering large profits from security trading.

The commission, reviewing its findings from state income tax returns, found that during 1936 the company itself reported an operating loss of $173,000, while Buckman and George individually reported a total gross income of $176,000.

"Much of this net income thus received by the principal officers of B. E. Buckman and Company was obtained through dealings in securities which B. E. Buckman and Company were engaged in selling as licensed dealers in this state."

Large Profits

"We think this shows a fraudulent practice whereby an insolvent corporation is left to face its creditors with a huge and increasing deficit through operations which result in large profits to principal officers."

ATTORNEY'S APPOINTED

Madison—(U)—Attorneys William H. Spohn of Madison and Lawrence Brody of LaCrosse were appointed by Governor LaFollette today as special counsel to investigate affairs of the B. E. Buckman and Company, Madison investment firm.

They will cooperate with the attorney general's office.

Brody will act as state prosecutor in the event any criminal actions are brought, as recommended yesterday in a report of the state public service commission to Governor LaFollette.

He was secretary to the late Governor John J. Blaine and formerly was district attorney of LaCrosse county.

Spohn will investigate stock transactions of the Buckman company, which was charged with the sale of unregistered securities. He will collect information for the benefit of investors. The governor said this information may be used by individuals as the basis of possible recovery suits.

On several other occasions Spohn has acted as special counsel for the state, once in a board of control investigation. He is a member of the newly created state board of mental hygiene.

The governor assigned Brody to a dual task—checking up on the "derelictions" of all persons connected with the Buckman company, directly or indirectly and upon reports that some public officials had been negligent in failing to take action against the firm.

Insofar as public officials are concerned, Brody is to make a special report to the chief executive.

Court Order Is Sought

To Win Release of Fund

Madison—(U)—Attorney General Loomis received authorization from the University of Wisconsin regents today to seek a court order releasing $50,000 appropriated by the legislature to reimburse low-salaried employees of the university for pay cuts imposed under a waiver system.

Secretary of State Theodore Damman questioned the constitutionality of the appropriation bill and has demanded a court declaration before he approves the payments.

The regents suggested that Loomis start a mandamus action in Dane county circuit court or seek a declaratory judgment from the supreme court.

Army Band Plays To Large Crowd

Soloists, Saxophone Sextet Well Received at College Chapel

The 120th Field Artillery band presented its only concert of the winter season last night at Memorial chapel under the direction of Warrant Officer Orville J. Thompson.

The directors reported that last night's crowd was the largest ever to hear the band in a concert at the chapel. Another concert is planned for next spring.

Jerry Huffman, trumpet soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, caught the crowd's favor with a triple-tongued solo, "Tower of Jewels" and a novelty number.

Particularly well received was the special arrangement of "George Gershwin's 'Rhapsody in Blue' seldom played by a band, in which the piano work of Don Gerlach was outstanding.

Orville Meltz and his Saxophones entertained the concert goers with a novelty feature and were brought back for encores three times.

The band presented a program well balanced with semi-classical, popular and march music.

Receipts Probably Will Hit New High, Officials Predict

Response to the annual Christmas seal sale by the Outagamie Health association is greater than ever before, indicating that this year's campaign's receipts probably will set a new high, it was reported today by officers.

Envelopes, each containing 100 seals valued at one cent each, were mailed throughout the city and county several weeks ago by the Appleton Woman's club. Citizens were asked to return $1, more if they wished, or any of the seals they did not purchase.

Immunization against small pox and diphtheria and tuberculosis clinics are paid for out of the funds received in the annual Christmas seal sale. A total of 43 clinics was held by the health association last year and up to Oct. 1 of this year, 23.

Last year's receipts amounted to $983.26 and more than $1,000 has been collected this year. Since the association was established in 1932, the total seal sale receipts have amounted to $4,617.39.

Mrs. Paul Hackbert is president of the association.

Clear Snow From Ice Rinks Today

Street Department Workmen Prepare Surface For Skaters

Appleton's nine ice rinks are being cleared of snow today and all will be flooded and ready for skaters tomorrow, if more snow doesn't fall tonight. Theodore Albrecht, street department superintendent, said today.

All the rinks were flooded several weeks ago but warm weather last week spoiled the skating surface. With a few days of cold weather the rinks should be in excellent shape.

Rinks are being maintained at McKinley school in the Fourth ward, the Edison school in the First ward, Spencer field in the Third ward, Wilson school in the Fifth ward, Newberry street in the Fourth ward, Jones park, Packard street, Erb park and Spring street. Jones and Erb park rinks are cared for by park board workmen while the remaining rinks are maintained by the street department.

Majority Vote Needed to Amend Co-op's Articles

Madison—(U)—Attorney General Loomis held today in an opinion to Secretary of State Theodore Damman that the vote necessary to amend articles of incorporation of a cooperative association is the vote of a majority of all members.

Damman sought the opinion to settle a dispute whether a majority at a meeting constituting a legal quorum was sufficient. Loomis said that while the cooperative law had been changed several times it was the legislative intent that a majority of all stockholders be required to amend the articles.

Madison—(U)—The University of Wisconsin board of regents authorized the college of agriculture yesterday to enlarge operations of its experiment station at Sturgeon Bay.

The board granted the request of Dean Chris L. Christensen for permission to lease 60 acres of land from Tony Stanka and Rudolph Tadey for five years at a rental of $100 a year beginning Jan. 1.

Entries Coming in for Home Lighting Contest As Yule Season Nears

As snow and cold weather begin to build up atmosphere for the approaching Christmas season, entries in the Post-Crescent Home Lighting Contest are steadily coming in.

Mrs. Blanche Wettengel, 615 N. Oneida street, was the first Appleton resident to enter the contest which will encourage neighborly competition in home decorations and turn the city into a winter wonderland for the Yuletide season.

Entering the contest, is not at all involved. On this page you'll find a blank. All you must write is your name, address and an X after the classification in which your home belongs and mail the blank to the Home Lighting Editor, Post-Crescent.

Here's a suggestion for an outdoor display:

Place metal pipes of whatever height you wish upright along both sides of the walk leading to your front door. Using whatever mechanical methods you wish, insert a small electric light bulb in the top of each pipe and wire them up. Then for a background to this lighted pathway to your home, you may have illuminated wreaths hung at the windows or perhaps a border of stars along the roof or both. This display is particularly adapted to small, one or one and one-half story homes and makes a most pleasant and cozy appearance.

Of more complex nature is the decoration scheme in which a satellite of smaller lights and figures is placed around one central object of Biblical or legendary significance.

For example, let's assume that your home has no porch, only a stoop, and the doorway is exactly in the center. There are large rooms on either side of the entry way and, consequently, large windows both on the first and second floor. Above the door you could place a cardboard silhouette of the three wise men riding their camels.

Lights Outline Scene
Lights placed behind the figures would outline them clearly in the night. Perhaps above them, near the edge of the roof, you could hang a star. And on the outside of windows both downstairs and upstairs you could place lighted streamers and garlands. If you have trees and shrubbery in the front yard, they could be decked with soft lights to carry out the solemn, meaningful theme.

The nature of your central theme would determine the gaiety or solemnity of the subordinate decorations. If, for example, instead of the wise men you had a miniature of Santa Claus and his reindeer dashing over the countryside, the attending lights would be of merrier, more colorful design.

Shrubby, incidentally, can be made the basis of a Christmas home lighting scheme. If you have a fir tree of some size in your yard, you can build your whole display on or around it.

But if you have only small shrubs that border the house, you can still use them to great advantage. If they are cut low enough, you can festoon them with bulbs that are so tilted as to bring out beauties of the home itself and produce an arresting indirect lighting effect.

Ideas for Christmas electric outdoor decorations are legion and the Post-Crescent welcomes the introduction of new methods of display. Originality will be one of the most important matters the judges will have to consider.

Judge Sympathizes With Family, Places Drunk on Probation

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau)
Oshkosh—Sympathy for the wife and two children of Fred Hartfield, 30, 154 Tyler street, Neenah, induced Judge S. J. Luchsinger to place Hartfield on probation for 60 days to the state board of control after the Neenah man had pleaded guilty of drunkenness in municipal court this morning.

He was arrested by Irving Stulp, Winnebago county patrolman, and charged with being drunk in a tavern in the town of Neenah. It was brought out by Lewis C. Magnusen, district attorney, that Hartfield's record shows seven arrests in Neenah and Oshkosh for drunkenness and one for drunken driving since 1932. Following Hartfield's tearful plea to the court, Judge Luchsinger ordered him to pay court costs of $6.35 and to turn his pay check over to his wife.

Treasurer Gets Final PWA Check

$1,706 Payment Brings Total Treatment Plant Grant to $313,265

A check of $1,706.24, the final payment on the sewage disposal PWA grant, was received by City Treasurer Joseph A. Kox this morning from the United States treasurer.

The check brings the total amount received from the federal government for construction of the sewage system to $313,265.83. Total cost of the plant to date is $701,433.67.

A request for a garage and storage building, estimated to cost $7,500, was rejected when the 1936 budget was set last month. However, it is expected the garage will be built some time in the future.

Improvement of the treatment plant grounds, which was started this fall by a WPA crew, was postponed until spring. The road leading to the plant will be graveled and the ground landscaped.

BOARD WILL MEET

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a regular monthly meeting tomorrow night in the "Y" building. Routine matters will be discussed.

and senate this week, they would have no assurance of getting the legislation to the White House this session. Many fundamental differences will have to be compromised between the house and senate versions.

The wage-hour bill will come up in the house next Monday, but its chances for final action were considered even slighter, because by the time a vote is taken only a week of the session will be left.

Southern senators expressed opposition to the proposal of the house labor committee for putting administration of the measure under the labor department. If the house should agree with its committee, there would be an argument with the senate, which voted to have an independent board of five members administer the law.

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the senate labor committee said he personally favored supervision by the labor department.

Committees were at work on three other administration recommendations: Housing legislation, tax revision, and a new merchant marine program. Only the first, however, has any chance of consideration at the special session.

Take One Blue Bottle From 99 Blue Bottles, Etc., Etc.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Ernest Simpson, of London, the former husband of Dorothea Parsons Simpson and of the Duchess of Windsor, the former wife of Commander Earl Winfield Spencer, U.S.N., the former husband of Mrs. Miriam J. Spencer and husband of Mrs. Norma Reese Johnson Spencer, has married Mrs. Mary Kirk Raffray, the former wife of Jacques Achille Louis Raffray, who has married Mrs. Connie De Bower, the former wife of Herbert De Bower.

Mr. De Bower is the ex-husband of the wife of the ex-husband of the wife of the ex-husband of both Dorothea Parsons Simpson and the Duke of Windsor's wife, the ex-wife of the ex-husband of Mrs. Miriam J. Spencer, the husband of Mrs. Norma Reese Johnson Spencer.

Or, to put it otherwise, the Duke of Windsor's wife is the ex-wife of the husband of the ex-wife of the husband of the ex-wife of Mr. De Bower and four to carry. Or, still otherwise, the ex-wife of the husband of Mr. De Bower's ex-wife is the wife of the ex-husband of the Duke of Windsor's wife, the ex-wife of the ex-husband of the ex-wife of the husband of the present Mrs. Spencer and carry one.

Or, perhaps more simply, Mrs. Dorothea Parsons Simpson is the ex-wife of the husband of the ex-wife of the ex-wife of Mr. De Bower and, by the same process, is ex-wife of the ex-husband of the Duke of Windsor's wife, the ex-wife of the ex-husband of Mrs. Miriam J. Spencer.

Water won't quench fire; fire won't burn stick; stick won't beat dog; dog won't bite pig; pig won't climb over the stile and the old lady cannot get home tonight.

Seating These Guests

Would be Tricky Problem

Mrs. Raffray is the ex-husband of the wife of the ex-husband of the ex-wife of the ex-husband of Mrs. Miriam J. Spencer, the ex-wife of the ex-husband of the Duke of Windsor's wife, the ex-wife of Mr. Raffray's own ex-wife's husband, ex-husband of Dorothea Parsons Simpson, and is himself the husband of the ex-wife of Mr. De Bower, whose present status is that of ex-husband.

Take one blue bottle from 99 blue bottles, leaving 98 blue bottles hanging on the wall; take one blue bottle from 98 blue bottles, leaving 97 blue bottles hanging on the wall; take one blue bottle from 97 blue bottles, leaving 96 blue bottles hanging on the wall.

At a formal dinner party a punctilious hostess would have an interesting problem seating all her guests in such a manner that no ex-husband should be placed next to either his present or ex-wife nor any guest next to the present husband or wife of his or her ex-spouse.

Eleven guests present a seating problem, anyway, and it would be necessary to place the present Mrs. Spencer next to the former Mrs. Spencer. The duke could be seated between the present Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Dorothea Parsons Simpson. Commander Spencer would be at the left of Mrs. Dorothea Parsons Simpson, with the present Mrs. Simpson on his left and Mr. De Bower on her left and the duchess to the left of him. (This is a circular table).

Might be Advisable

To Avoid Musical Chairs

Then comes Mr. Raffray, then the ex-Mrs. Spencer, then the present Mrs. Raffray and finally Mr. Simpson. He would be only one place removed from the duke, and the duchess would be next to the ex-husband of the present wife of one of her ex-husbands, Mr. De Bower.

Pegler

would be on the left of Mrs. Simpson, the ex-wife of his ex-wife's husband.

This is genteel company, and there need be no embarrassment over this proximity, although it might be advisable in the entertainment after dinner to avoid the game of musical chairs, which might result in confusion.

It has been estimated that if marriage and divorce were extended in the same ratio to the entire civilized population for a few generations and each marriage resulted in at least two children, the world would be just one great, big, happy family. Meet the ex-wife.

Cash Balance of $21,000 in County Treasury Dec. 1

Amount Adequate to Meet Claims Allowed by Supervisors

Waupaca — The cash balance of Waupaca county on Dec. 1 was approximately $21,000, according to a statement issued by County Treasurer L. J. Stadler. This will be sufficient to carry the county through to the first of the year paying all necessary claims allowed by the county board. One year ago it was necessary that the county borrow $80,000.

On Dec. 1, the county had nearly $125,000 in tax certificates; $63,000 covering 1936 taxes, or 71 per cent of tax rolls; $15,000 covering 1934 taxes, or 14 per cent of tax rolls; $10,000 covering 1933 taxes, or 1 per cent of tax rolls, and $3,800 covering 1932 taxes, or one-half of 1 per cent of tax rolls.

As the last legislature made no provision for any tax extension for next year, taxes will become delinquent in March, when turned over to the county treasurer.

The amount due the county from the village of Scandinavia and the town of Caledonia is from one person, and from the township of Weyauwega from 2 persons. One year ago Weyauwega had no delinquent taxes unpaid. During the depression when most taxing districts had only about a 50 per cent collection, the township of Weyauwega had a 90 per cent collection. Most of the land is so low that the last dry seasons were not as destructive as in other parts of the county. In addition the township officials were economical which resulted in a very low tax rate the last few years.

Hugo Paschke is the town chairman and Floyd Wall is treasurer.

Following is a list showing the amount and percentage of unpaid 1936 taxes in each taxing district in the county:

| Towns      | $   | %     |
|------------|------|-------|
| Bear Creek | 700  | 3.50  |
| Caledonia  | 29   | .25   |
| Dayton     | 1434 | 10.00 |
| Dupont     | 1227 | 9.00  |

APPLETON, WISCONSIN, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1937

Thursday's Amateur Card Will be Best of the Season

Windups to Show Ranking Boxers in This Section*CANADEO MEETS AHL*Heavies Will Trade
Leather in Two Preliminaries

THE CARD
Savior Canadeo, W. DePere, versus Hans Ahl, Oshkosh, five rounds at 145 pounds.
Al Scarlata, W. DePere, versus Bruce Fero, Fond du Lac, five rounds at 120 pounds.
Johnny Dux, Fond du Lac, versus Willard Hayes, Oconto, three rounds at 180 pounds.
Billy Jochman, Greenville, versus Ken Allmers, Oshkosh, three rounds at 185 pounds.
Butch Miller, Appleton, versus Gordon Jungwirth, Oshkosh, three rounds at 155 pounds.
Jerry Gutman, Fond du Lac, versus Clifford Lutz, Appleton, three rounds at 135 pounds.
Robert Jacobs, Appleton, versus Jack Kent, Waupaca, three rounds at 112 pounds.

THE best amateur fight card Appleton has had in many a month will be the Legion's Christmas present to followers of the sport starting at 8:30 Thursday evening. There will be seven bouts, five of them over the 3-round route and two over the 5-round route.

The two windup bouts are, by all means of comparison, the choicest contests arranged here in some time. The final bout will bring together Hans Ahl, Oshkosh veteran, and Savior Canadeo, West DePere, who for the last couple years has been a favorite performer in these parts and regularly a golden gloves contender in Chicago.

Ahl has appeared here on the last two cards winning his first fight by a technical K. O. and losing the second to Ed Conroy, Chicago. However, Ahl erased the defeat just last week when he won a verdict over the Chicago boxer and showed better than any time in months.

Canadeo recently resumed the fisty grind and a week ago showed on the losing end of a bout at Oshkosh. He fought a clever Chicago boxer but aims to get back on victory row at the expense of Ahl Thursday night. Canadeo is one of the smoothest boxers in this section and knows all the answers to ring tricks. His hitting ability often is subject of adverse comment but regardless of that he's the slasher who can do an awful lot of damage to an opponent's face. Ahl can hit like a heavyweight and isn't far behind Canadeo in ring tricks.

Scarlatas Meets Fero
The other windup bout has little Al Scarlata, West DePere, slated to trade punches with Bruce Fero, Fond du Lac. The lads are 120 pounders and there'll be punching every minute of the time unless the Fond du Lac youth gets on a bicycle and tries to stay away from Scarlata. Of the two, Fero is probably the craftier but Scarlata knows just one trick that appeals to everyone—he knows how to make his hands move.

In the fifth bout of the evening, the last of the supporting bouts, two fighters who have never appeared in Appleton before will make their bow. They are Johnny Dux, Fond du Lac, and Willard Hayes, Oconto, heavyweights.

Matchmaker Les Holzer says that Dux is rated one of the best heavyweights in the state and has won six bouts this season. Ahl is an aggressive fighter who never backs up and he can take it as well as hand it out.

Hayes won the novice championship at Green Bay last winter and then won an open title at Stevens point. He recently competed in a Milwaukee tournament and won three fights before an injury forced him to quit in a bout with the tournament's champion. The wins were all by the K. O. route.

Billy Jochman, Greenville, and Ken Allmers, Oshkosh, also heavy-

HEAVYWEIGHT HOPE

To mix with Max Schmeling in Madison Square Garden on Dec. 13 will be big-fisted Harry Thomas (above), 180-pound, 26-year-old ringman from Minnesota.

U. of W. Grid Coach to Be Speaker at Kimberly

Harry Stuhldreher, director of athletics and football coach at the University of Wisconsin, will be the principal speaker at a dinner in the Kimberly High school gymnasium at Kimberly at 6:30 this evening. The talk is one in a series intended to strengthen interest in athletics at the university and describe workings of the athletic department.

weights, will tangle in the fourth go, one marking the return of Jochman to the local ring. Both boys like to punch and they aren't a bit averse to standing right up and tossing leather as fast as they can while the folks go wild. Both have shown here in some of the wildest bouts on armory programs.

Miller Gets Another Chance
Butch Miller, Appleton, will get a chance to redeem himself for a poor showing with Gordon Jungwirth, Oshkosh, when the two clash in the evening's third show at 155 pounds. They opposed each other at Fond du Lac on Dec. 1 with Miller taking a shellacking. He claims he wasn't in perfect condition that evening but will be Thursday. Jungwirth has appeared here several times and will be remembered as a hard hitter although not so good on defense. Miller, formerly of the United States army, will be making his first local start.

In the second bout Jerry Gutman, Fond du Lac, will take on Clifford Lutz, Appleton. It will be Lutz' toughest assignment for in Gutman he meets a lightweight who has won three of his last four starts. His only defeat was at the hands of Al Robbins.

The curtain will go up on Robert Jacobs, Appleton boy who attended St. Norbert High school where he learned his boxing, and Jack Kent, Waupaca. The latter is a pupil of Lyle Drake who used to entertain boxing fans several years ago.

Major Leaguers Winding Up Dullest Meeting in Years

BY EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO — (AP) — Scooping up a few bucks, a lot of "scratches" and "nearly a single extra base "trade hit" as major league ivory brokers prepare for a home run from their 1937 pot-wood.

The dullest major meetings in years, veteran telegraph operators agreed. . . . In 1933 when the Chicago White Sox paid $100,000 for Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Jimmy Dykes, about 75,000 words were filed daily by one service during the three-day meeting. . . . The total wordage sent out by the same company during the first two days of the current meeting approximated 32,000.

On a ceaseless tour of two hotel lobbies. . . . Bill Terry and Charley Grimm holding their eighteenth "conference," leading one newsmen to crack: "Probably argued the price of hogs in Missouri." . . . And Terry, asked the question of "What's doing" so often that he absent-mindedly replied "See Eddie Brannick" when asked what time it was.

Bucky Harris, Washington manager, remarking after a deal between the Senators and Chicago's White Sox had fallen through: Just because Dykes used a gun on Cochrane in that Detroit deal at Milwaukee is no reason he can put one on me here." . . . And Dykes' own remark when Joe McCarthy of the champion Yankees complained of elbow room at dinner: "That's the first time he's ever been crowded in any league."

The chuckle when this came out: The Browns sent Howard Stevens, St. Louis business man, along to protect executives Don Barnes and Bill De Witt from being "outlookered" in financial dealings. . . . Stevens opened his wallet to pay for a cab ride and discovering he'd been lifted for his entire roll. . . . Barnes and De Witt immediately appointed themselves Stevens' guardians.

Some unknown rover's prize remark as he spotted Gabby Street sitting between Joe McCarthy of the Yanks and Oscar Vitt of Cleveland: "At last the Browns make the first division."

Cassey Stengel, Boston Bees manager, being asked whether he thought the adoption of the "dead-ball" would reduce the number of squeeze-plays in the National circuit, solemnly replying: "My gosh it'll take four or five years for guys in our league to learn what it is."

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

TOGETHER with other Fox river valley sports writers and one from Milwaukee and with friends of the Oshkosh All Stars, we were guests of Lonnie Darling, manager of the Stars, at dinner at Oshkosh last evening and then attended the All Star-Shamrock basketball game at the recreational gymnasium.

And of course the evening's discussion was pro basketball generally. Running a club such as Darling has undertaken at Oshkosh is much more of a job than most people imagine for the simple reason that a sports fan, at least in this section, is rather suspicious.

If the All Stars go out and beat some team by a big score then the other squad is a lemon. If the Stars get beat then they're not so hot or if the game is close and decided in the last minute or two then the game was fixed. It's almost a losing setup regardless of what happens.

But Darling hopes to end some of that criticism this winter with the announcement that the All Stars now are members of the professional basketball league which ought to mean something to the critics. And it may increase the interest in the sport just as league standings and a possible championship or second place position always do.

After the ball game we had a chance to renew acquaintance with some of the members of the squad as, for instance, Mullen, Vander Meulen and Hamann, and to meet almost all the other members of the squad.

We were struck with the fact that the Stars are a clean-cut outfit very much devoid of what is called in sports, basketball bums. Several of the lads are high school coaches in this section, others have jobs of some kind and Mullen is a lawyer working up a nice practice.

But as we heard the sound discussed and the fact that Oshkosh people are just taking to the team, it occurred to us that because all the fellows don't live in Oshkosh perhaps that's why the folks don't take to the squad as they might. Ray Hamann is something of a hero around Kimberly, is extremely well liked by his many friends in the village and other Fox river valley cities, and yet is something of a stranger in Oshkosh. And the same goes for Prebost at Pulaski and for Vander Meulen at Waupaca.

However, they can't all get employment in Oshkosh so they must work some other place. And that, if you can call it such, is a weakness on the part of the All Star setup.

The All Stars play top basketball all the time because Lonnie Darling isn't the kind who can take a trimming without it hurting. During a close basketball game he gets so nervous he devours anywhere from three to five packages of gum.

Last night the Stars didn't have much opposition after the first period. The Shamrocks handled the ball well enough but they didn't shoot and a big, gangling center, who should have quit the game long ago, was more bother than good.

The Stars never let down, however, and the way they handled the ball, drove in under the hoop and generally played the game was more than interesting. It occurred to me that a lot of high school coaches would do well to take their kids to a game; they'd learn a lot in one evening.

This weekend the Stars begin their series with the famous New York Rens, the Negro team which claimed the world title last year until the Stars knocked them out in a 7-game series. There's no love lost between the two clubs and the Oshkosh gym Saturday night will be jammed to the last square foot of standing room.

Sunday afternoon the teams will go to Madison and play in the U. W. field house in a charity game and 7,500 are expected to watch if the weather is at all favorable.

Russ Lynch of the Journal, at Oshkosh last evening, told me that Ollie Kuechle's trip up here for that football dinner cost Ollie about $300. He cracked the block on his engine on the way up.

We are indebted to Elmer Schabo, Jr., now a freshman at Northwestern college, Watertown, for our information on the Gosling cagers. Elmer also adds that the Northwestern football team, which Lawrence defeated, won the Tri-State title with five wins and no defeats.

Judge Fred V. Heinemann of county court got out on his pencil the other day and produced some interesting facts about his Harvard bowling team in the Elks Eastern league. Members of the squad are George H. Schmidt, Chester Scott, Dr. A. E. Aditt, Henry Scheil and the Judge. He (at least) admits they're something of old timers in the circuit and the combined ages make for 290 years; two are grandfathers; two have had broken backs at some time or other; their combined years of bowling are 60 years; and last year the squad rolled a 3,037 for high match score for the league.

1,300 Pay Tribute To U. W. Gridders

Zupke Says Teams 'Have Always Enjoyed Tremendous Respect'

Madison — (AP) — Wisconsin's 1937 football squad and the coaching staff, headed by Harry Stuhldreher, reached the heights of public acclaim for a successful season last night.

Approximately 1,300 fans, of whom 1,075 were banquet guests, gathered at the university field house to pay tribute to the Badger squad and listen to the "wise cracks" of after dinner speakers.

"Wisconsin hasn't won a championship since 1912, but its teams have always enjoyed tremendous respect," said Coach Robert (Bob) Zupke of Illinois, one of five mid-west coaches who attended.

Other coaches present were John Driscoll of Marquette, Mal Elward of Purdue, Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, and Alvin McMillin of Indiana. Also seated at the speakers' table were President Clarence A. Dykstra of the university, Adjutant General Ralph Immelt, representing Governor LaFollette, and Harold Wilkie, president of the board of regents.

Warren Brown, Chicago newspaperman, was toastmaster.

Different Types Of Baseballs Will Be Used by Loops

American, National Circuit
Officials Disagree
On Horsehide

BY PAUL MICKELSON
CHICAGO — (AP) — American leaguers will keep on their primrose path of happy customers and home runs for 1938 while their National league cousins go back to the old skin game of squeeze play, shorter hits and photo finish games.

A bit sore at each other's wilfulness in the matter, the American leaguers voted yesterday to retain the old lively ball whereas the National leaguers, unblest by such home run hitters as Joe Di Maggio, Lou Gehrig and Jimmy Foxx, decided to go back to the deader horsehide. Thus, after four years of agreement on the ball, the two leagues again find they have agreed to disagree.

Heavier Cover
What the difference in the baseball will be is anybody's guess. One ball manufacturer said the American league ball would travel but a few feet farther than the National brand while another said the difference might be as much as 200 more home runs for the Americans in manufacture, the new National league sphere has a slightly heavier cover and five strands of thread instead of four.

Both league heads blamed the other for the split.

"We were in complete agreement to change the ball," explained President Ford Frick of the Nationals, "and the American leaguers suddenly backed out, leaving us with no other possible action but to go ahead with the deader ball."

"We were open to a change but failed to find a new one that looked better for our purposes than the one we used last season," said American League President Will Harridge. "Furthermore, we were supposed to meet with the Nationals Monday night for a demonstration and they didn't show up. We have appointed a committee to study the baseball further but there will be no change until the 1939 season at the earliest."

Joint Session
The leagues met in joint session today. A few major league pilots and club owners still hoped to swing a few last minute deals in the final hours of the dearest trading bee in years though none of them was willing to bet a pair of shoestrings on it. Prosperity ruined the present ivory market. Everybody had money to spend for players but the supply of good players was far under the demand.

The Boston Red Sox, who did quite a bit of business here and at Milwaukee, landed a very promising recruit last night by buying Ted Williams, 19-year old outfielder, from the San Diego Padres. Husky six footer who has had but two years of pro baseball experience, hit only 292 last season for the Padres but slammed out 25 homers.

Catcher Art Grace of the Philadelphia Phillies was sent to the St. Louis Cardinals for Cap Clark, a young catcher who was with Houston and Columbus last season.

Members of the Rens, who last year won 121 games and lost 14, will all be back in uniform. The same pair of giants, "Tarzan" Cooper and "Wee Willie" Smith alternate at the pivot position. The little speedsters, Lou Badger, John Isaacs and "Bruiser" Saich are assigned to the guard-posts while at forwards will be "Fat" Jenkins, Al Johnson and the silent Johnny Holl, a lad who is the least spectacular of the sepien stars, but who is most important in the club's offense and defense.

Oshkosh will have 10 "cents" all over 6 feet tall—available for service. Regulars with the All Stars from last season include two All-Americans—E. Mullen, Marquette, captain and guard, and Leroy Edwards, University of Kentucky, center. Other useful starters are Augie Vander Meulen, Carroll college, and Pete Prebost, Wisconsin, forwards; with Ray Hamann, Wisconsin, and Herman Witasek, North Dakota university, alternating at guard.

Newcomers to the All Stars, which have aided the team in maintaining an undefeated record this season, are Theodore "Big Dog" Alford, Baylor university, Waco, Tex.; Ray Adams, captain of DePaul university cagers; and George Svendsen, Minnesota, and Darrell Lester, Texas Christian, the latter two being members of the Green Bay Packers the past season.

WALLOP SHAMROCKS
Oshkosh—Oshkosh All Stars ran over the New York Shamrocks by a 36 to 23 score here last night at the Recreational gymnasium. The invaders played fair ball for the first quarter but then wilted under the speed flashed by the Stars and were no match. Oshkosh staged a spurt in the second quarter that brought a 19 to 2 lead at the half.

Edwards, with five baskets and two free throws, led the All Stars scorers with 10 points. Vander Meulen was next with three field goals for six points.

All-Stars and Renaissance Resume Basketball Rivalry Saturday Night

OSHKOSH — Basketball of a world championship calibre among professional teams will be played at Oshkosh, Saturday evening, and at the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse at Madison, Sunday afternoon, when the Oshkosh All Stars and New York Renaissance meet in two games.

Generally considered the world's professional cage champions last season, the Rens were defeated by the All Stars four out of seven games, the Wisconsin team being the only aggregation to win a series of games from the colored five.

Next Monday, the Oshkosh All Stars, anxious to spread the fame they have achieved in Wisconsin to other parts of the country, will start a tour to play the leading pro teams of the east on their own courts.

None of the teams they will meet will provide more opposition than that to be offered by the Rens here Saturday and at Madison, Sunday. Little love is lost between these quintets that are tops in the cage sports and vying with each other for championship honors.

The invaders played fair ball for the first quarter but then wilted under the speed flashed by the Stars and were no match. Oshkosh staged a spurt in the second quarter that brought a 19 to 2 lead at the half.

Edwards, with five baskets and two free throws, led the All Stars scorers with 10 points. Vander Meulen was next with three field goals for six points.

Balance, with Weight on Balls of Feet, and Follow Through Secret of Good Floor Shooting

LAST winter a group of Duquesne basketball graduates, with a Pittsburgh and a Carnegie Tech star, banded together under the Pittsburgh Pirates colors. In a warm-up fray the Pirates had defeated the team composed of former Long Island U. players and was primed for a battle with America's leading pro champs, the Philadelphia Sphas, champions of the American Professional League. Since the starting Pittsburgh lineup that evening was made up of five Duquesne players the ball handling of both teams was extraordinary.

The game was close with only a point or two separating both teams at all times. Duquesne's representatives, drilled in the "percentage game," set Herb Bonn in the center of the court. Bonn the greatest shot that ever matriculated at Duquesne took exactly seven shots during the second half of the game.

Wildcats Defeat Marquette in Last Minutes of Battle

Score Two Baskets to Edge Out Hilloppers, 31 to 29

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—Marquette university cagers had a 500 percentage against Big Ten foes today, the conquerors of Wisconsin losing to Northwestern in the auditorium last night, 31 to 29, before an estimated crowd of 3,800.

A field goal by Melchior, Wildcat forward, gave his team the lead in the last minute and a half of play, and although Coach Bill Chandler of the Hilloppers sent out all his tall men, Dutch Lomborg's conference favorites managed to dominate play to the end.

Marquette had pulled up from a trailing position at the half, 17 to 12, to tie the score at 26 with eight minutes to go. Two field goals by Dave Quabius, Marquette guard, had put the Hilloppers in the running.

Wildcats Get Rebounds

Free throws by Hesik, Marquette guard, and Davis, Northwestern forward, tied the score again at 27. Hesik sank a shot to give Marquette the lead, but Voigts sank a long one to tie the score at 29, with two minutes to go. Then Melchior followed with his game-winning short goal.

Play was in spurts, flashy and mediocre, throughout. Marquette missed frequently under the basket and Northwestern snared most of the rebounds.

Sokody, Marquette center, led the scoring with four goals and a gift shot. Currie, Wildcat guard, followed in honors with four field goals.

Oshkosh Quintet Ekes Out 20-17 Win Over Menasha

Nine Point Scoring Spree in Final Period Falls Short

MENASHA — Menasha's final quarter 9 - point scoring spurge fell short by four points of topping Oshkosh Tuesday night at Butte des Morts bym, with the Indians copping a 20 to 17 victory in a non-conference game.

After battling on even terms during the first half, the Fox River Valley conference quintet held the Blueways to a standstill during the third period while they collected nine points. Menash's unloosed its offense in the final period, scoring nine points while restricting the Indians to two free throws.

Landskron, Blueway forward, led Menasha's offensive rally in the final stanza, sinking two field goals, while Heiss, guard, and Osiewalski, forward, each accounted for a basket. Osiewalski also sank a 1-point.

Erdlitz, Harra Star

Erdlitz, left forward, paced the Oshkosh aggregation to its triumph, accounting for nine points from three baskets and as many gift shots. Harra, forward, also helped the Indians' cause with two each.

Oshkosh's victory was the result of the Indians sharpshooting from the free throw line, raking six gift shots out of eight attempts. The Blueways sank eight field goals to Oshkosh's seven, but Menasha took advantage of only one gift shot.

After juggling the ball around for most of the opening period Menasha started the scoring when Landskron made a 3-point shot. Oshkosh's defense, however, bettered the lead. Shadd's and Erdlitz' field goals moved the Indians into the lead again, with Resch's basket mounting the score to 9 to 8 as the half ended. Resch scored his basket after intercepting an Oshkosh loss and dribbling half the length of the court.

Oshkosh scored its nine points in the third period off Harra's two baskets, Erdlitz' field goal and free throw and Shadd's basket.

Osiewalski opened Menasha's scoring spree in the finale with a donation toss. Erdlitz made good on a free throw followed by James' gift shot. Then Osiewalski sank a basket with Landskron sinking two in a row followed by Resch's field goal as the game ended.

Award Clint Frank Prize Grid Trophy

Acclaimed as Nation's Outstanding College Football Player

New York—(AP)—Clinton Edward of Yale university and Evanston, Ill., today has tangible proof of the fact that he "has everything."

He has, first of all, the John W. Heisman Memorial trophy, awarded each year to the nation's outstanding all-around college football player. He has, further, a place on virtually every All-American team.

And he has, in addition, the admiration and respect of each of the 1,000 guests who turned out at the downtown Athletic club last night to hear Frank's praises sung and witness his acceptance of the handsome bronze statuette.

Unassuming Poise

The unassuming poise that marked him throughout his two All-America campaigns was very much in evidence as he received the tribute of a crowd that included football coaches and football stars of recent and long-gone years.

"Football has always been a sport, a game to me, and nothing more," he said. "I was interested in it as such, I played it as such, and I leave it as such."

On his own say-so, Yale's brilliant halfback and play-caller really is leaving the game. He is not greatly interested in the annual East-West charity game on New Year's day at San Francisco, even if he should be tendered an official invitation, and very definitely does not intend to play professional football. Nor does he plan to coach as the 1938 trophy winner, fellow-All Larry Kelley, did thisness.

"I'm going into business," was the only comment Frank would make on his post-graduation plans, "but I'm not sure yet just what it will be."

Spectators Hurl Pieces of Seats at Hockey Officials

(By the Associated Press)

The Montreal Canadiens, although they filtered through the first few games, are off to the same kind of start as last season. The international division title in the National Hockey league last season. And the Boston fans are the same kind of superheated rosters they have been for a good many years.

Those facts were brought out last night as the Canadiens won and the Bruins lost in the only two games on the league schedule.

The Flying Frenchmen walloped their Montreal Rivals, the Bruins, 5 to 1, before a crowd of 8,000, the largest of the season. The Bruins, yielding to the Detroit Red Wings, 3 to 2, suffered their first defeat of the season on their home ring and the cash customers blamed it on the officials.

After Hec Kileua slapped in Detroit's winning goal halfway through the last period, the boys up in the top gallery of the Boston Garden began pulling pieces off their seats and hurling them at the officials. They made it a real demonstration at the finish when Art Ross put on six forwards and Eucio McDonald broke away and fired into the empty cage only to lose out on a goal because an off-side had been called.

Roger Niles, 13, Scores Most Points in His Division

AN Appleton youth, Roger Niles, 13, copped state honors for his age division in the recent football tests sponsored by WPA, according to Hubert J. Piette, county WPA recreation supervisor. Niles, who was high in his division last year, piled up 2,997 points, the highest number ever made by a boy in the tests.

Approximately 25,000 boys participated in the contest ranging in age from 10 to 18 years. Final results show that Outagamie county placed second to Chippewa county with 3,026 points, about 1,200 Outagamie county youths completed.

Niles made the following records at Pierce park preceding the St. Mary's-Stevens Point football game Nov. 7. Punt, 50 yards, 1 foot, 798 points; drop kick, 38 yards, 610 points; place kick, 714 points; forward pass, 49 yards, 2 feet, 875 points. The results are average of three attempts.

Stagg's Team to Play Chicago Squad in 1938

Stagg's team, College of Pacific eleven from Stockton, Calif., has been signed for a game Nov. 12, as a tribute to the veteran on his fiftieth year of football coaching next season. Dean of America's coaches, "The Grand Old Man" left Chicago in 1933, at the age of 71 under the university rule of faculty retirement.

The Maroons will go back on an eight-game schedule next fall. This year's schedule included only seven games. The 1938 opponents will be Oct. 1 Bradley at Chicago; Oct. 8 Chicago at Michigan; Oct. 15, Iowa at Chicago; Oct. 22, Chicago at Ohio State; Oct. 29, De Paul at Chicago; Nov. 5, Chicago at Harvard; Nov. 12 College of Pacific at Chicago; Nov. 19 Illinois at Chicago.

Council Approves Several Changes In Street Names

Superhighway Through City Is Designated as Hyland Avenue

Kaukauna—An ordinance naming and renaming several of Kaukauna's streets was passed at the regular meeting of the city council last night and a petition for the erection of a windbreak on the Lave street bridge denied. In the latter case, Mayor Lewis F. Nelson was empowered to appoint a committee of aldermen and citizens to attempt the project without financial assistance from the city.

Under the terms of the ordinance, the new superhighway passing through Kaukauna will be known as Hyland avenue; Tenth avenue will henceforth be Foster street; Ninth avenue will be Eden avenue; Money road from Draper street north to the city limits will be Gertrude street, and the street connecting with Gertrude about 1,000 feet north of Hyland avenue will be named Joyce street.

The council disagreed at first when the matter of the streets was mentioned. Alderman W. H. Cooper was of the opinion that the new highway would always be known as the superhighway, no matter what name the council nominally attached to it, and Alderman Jule Merles suggested that Little Chute be consulted in regard to the name. Other aldermen asked that the matter be laid over until a future meeting, but at the insistence of the majority a ten minute recess was taken and the new ordinance prepared.

After the ordinance had been brought in Alderman T. L. Segge, who led the council, in the preparation of the document several aldermen were as yet undecided and again asked that the matter be laid over, but only Alderman Merles and Edward Steidl supported a motion to this effect. With the voting of the ordinance decided upon immediately, all aldermen supported it.

The question of a windbreak for the Lave street bridge also created much discussion. A petition of 190 signatures was presented to the council by City Clerk Lester J. Brenzel asking that the windbreak be erected. Alderman Otto M. Ludtke spoke in favor of the proposal, saying that the need had been felt for many years, and other communities, such as Kimberly, had windbreaks. Alderman Oscar Aiger reported that he had received a tentative estimate from a local source in regard to the cost of materials, the amount running slightly over $300. The estimate was based on the use of sheet metal in the windbreak, and provided for one six feet high.

Ludtke was supported by Cooper, who cited the distance traveled by students and townspeople in reaching the high school, municipal building and post office as the basis for a windbreak.

A damper was thrown on enthusiasm for the structure by a statement by Alderman Raymond Nagel, financial committee head, who reported the council had but $200 left in the treasury, and would need help from the utilities to pay the next two payrolls. Considering that some $1,200 of police pension money was supposed to be in the treasury the city was about $1,000 in the red. "The idea is a good one," Nagel concluded, "but the condition of the city's finances precludes its adoption."

It was suggested that the use of snow plos on Kaukauna sidewalks be discontinued and the money saved in this manner be used for the windbreak. After some argument the council abolished the use of plovos on sidewalks, only Ludtke and Cooper opposing the motion, but refused to erect the windbreak. The council also voted to accept the Merritt Black plat in the northwestern part of the city. Aldermen Cooper, Ludtke, Merles, Mulholland and Steidl supported the motion with Aldermen Seggelink, Alger, Femal, Kilgas and Nagel opposing it. Mayor Nelson's vote of aye broke the five to five tie.

A letter from the Chicago regional director of the PWA was read, asking that Kaukauna send representatives to a meeting at Chicago with representatives of the P. and D. Construction company in regard to difficulties over the construction of the disposal plant. The matter was referred to the utilities commission.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Merles barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Protection of Kaukauna Health Started in 1898

BY WILLIAM DOWLING
(Editor's Note: This year marks the golden jubilee of Kaukauna's incorporation as a city. This is the thirteenth of a series of articles tracing the history of Kaukauna from early times.)

Kaukauna—In 1898 the city took steps to provide the community with adequate health protection. The city physician was to be named the health officer of Kaukauna, and was to be appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the council. It was to be his duty to execute the orders and regulations of the board of health and to see that the laws of the state were also observed.

It was decided that the board of health should consist of three members of the council, appointed by the mayor within three days after each annual election. The city physician was to be ex-officio a member of the board. The board organized itself by electing a chairman and clerk and reporting to the state board of health the name and address of the city health officer.

The duty of the city health officer was defined as seeing that all parts of the city were kept clean and in proper condition; to inspect sewers, gutters and drains and to prevent cluttering of alleys, streets and public grounds. He was to visit and inspect private premises and compel removal of matter found there injurious to health. He was instructed to visit tenement houses and make sure they were not overcrowded. The city health officer also was charged with treating and providing for the illnesses of indigent persons.

Any rules the board of health might make were to be enforced by the city health officer. Upon the appearance of any cases of small pox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, Asiatic fever, cholera or other contagious diseases he was to investigate the circumstances and report to the board. Any city physician who was called upon to attend a case of this nature was ordered to report it within 48 hours to the board of health, or be liable to a fine of from $5 to $25 for each day of delay. The board was authorized to appoint all necessary deputies for carrying out their orders.

No one but practicing physicians were to be allowed to dispense poisons, and druggists were required to note the name, use, purpose, day and date of sale, quantity, and person for whom it was intended in every case.

A last provision of the health code provided penalties for those who adulterated any food or drinking substances. The city attorney was given the power to prosecute offenders.

Alderman Asks Safe Skating Place for Waupaca Children

Waupaca — Alderman Holmes made a plea Tuesday evening for a skating place for small boys and girls, reporting the hockey rink a dangerous place for children. He suggested that the mayor appoint a committee to investigate and remedy the situation. The board of public works was told to look for suitable locations for the sport and report at the next meeting.

Alderman Weatherbee reported that much criticism had been made regarding the refusal of the council to light the Christmas decorations this year—a matter that for years has been assumed by the chamber of commerce—and suggested that something be done about it. The mayor said that members of the association had received subscriptions from business men amounting to $100 which would prove ample for the purpose, and that it would be unnecessary for the city to do anything about it.

The meeting adjourned until Dec. 14 when matters pertaining to the new school will be disposed of.

Town Gets Boost In Utilities Tax

Total Boost of $511 Reported at Town of Brillion Meeting

Forest Junction — Utility tax apportionments to the town of Brillion show an appreciable increase over the last annual apportionment, according to the 1937 tax figures made public at a meeting of the Brillion town board of audit here Tuesday. The apportionment in behalf of the Wisconsin Public Service corporation has increased from $886.63 to $1,042.56, that in behalf of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company from $292.30 to $642.83, and that of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company from $296.83 to $304.49. The aggregate increase is $511.12.

Part of the increase of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company is due to a deduction from the regular apportionment in 1936 of on account of a previous overpayment. Increases in behalf of the other two companies are normal. High school tuition to be paid by the township when the 1937 tax roll has been completed, by the clerk will amount to $4,067.20 as compared to $3,983.13 in 1936. Of this year's amount, Kaukauna receives $167.40, Hilbert, $176, and Brillion $3,723.80.

Menasha Council Sets $34 Tax Rate; $4 Over This Year

City Tax Levy of $128,000
For 1938 Is Increase
Of $52,000

Menasha — A $34 per thousand tax rate, an increase of $4 over last year's rate, was set by the city council at its meeting at the city hall last night. The Menasha tax levy for 1938 will amount to $428,101.60, an increase of nearly $52,000 over the 1937 levy of $375,915.60.

Chief among the items causing the increased tax rate are an $84,040 state and county tax assessment, an increase of $16,000 over this year; a $35,000 budget for poor relief; a $10,000 increase over 1937; a $13,000 increase in the sewage plant operation to $27,815; salaries amounting to $50,960, an increase of $9,000; and retirement of $76,137.50 in bonds and interest, an increase of $16,000 over this year.

Prior to last night's meeting the council had worked diligently on the 1938 budget, cutting requests and paring expenses wherever possible. Budget requests of the school board, public buildings fund and others were slashed wherever possible. Only by such means was the council able to hold the rate down to $34. The increase comes chiefly from the fixed costs over which the council has no control.

Cut Street Budget
The department suffering the greatest cut was the street department, for which only $25,000 was allotted in 1938. Expenditures during 1937 in this department amounted to $60,645.96. The drastic cut in the street budget caused Aldermen Crode and Michalkiewicz to vote no when the budget was first submitted to a vote.

When the city attorney was instructed to draw up a resolution authorizing the return of special assessments for curb and gutter and sidewalks improvements to the street department instead of to the general fund of the council, the two aldermen changed their votes and the budget was passed unanimously. Previously the street department financed such improvements, payment for which went into the general fund of the city. How much more money will be made available to the street department in this way is not known.

Budgets which were increased included school board, $103,862; vocational school, $18,850; election, $1,050; street lights and hydrants, $33,776.52; police, $2,275; board of health, $5,800; administrative expense, $3,500; and police pension, $1,850. Even though there were increases in these, the amounts allotted were not as large as those requested. The largest increase allowed was to the school board $3,000.

Budgets Reduced
Budgets decreased included contingency fund, $9,056.02; celebrations and Memorial day, $400; park and recreation, $9,194.23; bank guaranties, $500; fire department, $1,500, and public buildings, $2,000.

Budgets remaining the same are compensation and unemployment insurance, $4,000; assessment and equalization, $1,200; printing and ordinances, $1,000; cemetery fund, $1,630; visiting nurse, $500; bridge fund, $1,000, and court fund, $100.

Under the terms of the donation of Eliza D. Smith library to the city, a mill tax must be levied annually for the library. The library will receive $12,591.22. Other items in the 1938 budget include temporary bank loans, $55,000, and temporary bank loan retirement, $25,000.

$50,000 County Tax
Included in the city's share of $84,040.40 of county and state tax is $58,524.43 county tax; $2,700.50 state tax; $4,815.47 county poor tax; $10,000.00 county school tax; $1,217.78 soldier relief; $43.93 illegal real estate; $2,824.16 poor relief; $1,867.05 old age assistance, and $908.07 special assessments.

Menasha citizens again will be able to pay their taxes in monthly installments. Upon motion of Alderman Clement Newcomb, the city attorney was instructed to prepare such a resolution. The plan was first attempted last year and over 400 citizens made use of it. It was recommended that the interest rate be dropped from one-half to one-fourth of one per cent.

Payment of taxes in installments reduces the bank guarantee charges for city money on deposit, results in an even flow of money to meet city expenses, and provides an easy method of payment.

Johnson Named Head
Of Meatcutters Union
Menasha—Clarence Johnson was elected president of Meatcutters Union, local 559, at the Twin Cities Union club last night. Other officers are Clarence Biemel, recording secretary; Charles Beckers, financial secretary; and Ralph Larson, vice president.

Installation of the officers will be held at the January meeting, which will be held at the Eagles club rooms. Neenah. Delegates to the executive council will be appointed at the installation ceremonies next month.

Employment Officials
Attend State Session
Neenah—Harry D. Gates, manager of the Neenah-Menasha office of the Wisconsin employment service, and Lawrence Burly, unemployment compensation examiner for this district, are attending a meeting of state managers of the service at Madison which is being held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. They also will attend a banquet tonight for all employees of the state industrial commission on the state university's campus.

The limited budget, the number of men employed by the street department, over 50, will be cut. Mayor Held appealed to private industry to employ as many Menasha people as possible instead of hiring outside labor.

Alderman Newcomb stated that the street department payroll now amounted to $450 a week. In 1933 the entire department operated for $24,000. Alderman Stip cautioned against installing additional electric lights as expenses in that department run higher with each new street light installed.

Sale of public improvement bonds was suggested by Alderman Newcomb for any public works which may be absolutely necessary. City Attorney Edward MacKenzie was instructed to study the means of financing public works through such bonds.

The council adjourned to 7:30 Tuesday evening, Dec. 14, when sewer assessments will be considered. A board of public works hearing on the assessments will precede the council meeting at 7 o'clock at the city hall.

A resolution guaranteeing payment of the city's share of county and state taxes by the city treasurer was passed. The city's guarantee saves the cost of a bond.

Dr. Baker Interprets Diplomatic Maneuvers

Neenah — Diplomatic maneuvers in Far Eastern and European situations that have made the front pages within the last month were interpreted by Dr. L. C. Baker, Lawrence college professor, as he presented another of a series of current events lectures at the Neenah Tuesday club meeting in Neenah library club rooms Tuesday afternoon.

Prefacing his talk with the remark that it is important to remember that during the last five years, Japan has annexed Manchuria to the north of China, has taken Shanghai and regions westward, is preparing to blockade the coast of China and hopes to command the entrance to Canton, the largest city in China. Dr. Baker commented upon the results of the Brussels conference, called to discuss the Sino-Japanese conflict. Japan refused the invitation to attend, he pointed out, and nothing could be negotiated without Japan and no other nation was willing to do anything definite.

"A Report" addressed to nobody saying nothing is what came out of the meeting and it says in effect that peace cannot be attained unless Japan and China will meet to discuss peace," continued Dr. Baker. "The report was voted upon, five countries abstaining from voting. The United States representative, Norman Davis, was ready to sail for home after the conference but England didn't want him to go home without a cup of tea.

Have Cup of Tea
That cup of tea involves several other things, among them, the projected trade treaty between United States and England. England has also very modestly said that of course she hopes that in case of war, America will continue to hold to the trade agreement.

"Recently the British ambassador to Japan asked Japan to talk peace terms with China. Japan replied that it would be very nice if England or United States would offer to serve as a mediator in China. Anthony Eden said in a speech following that reply that it would be very nice if United States and England would mediate.

"What is the situation at present in the Sino-Japanese conflict? It is reported that the Japanese are outside the walls of Nanking but it is an empty capital with departments moved to various inland cities but to Japan it has importance because the Japanese feel that if they can seize this reputed center of the new Chinese republic, they can take away the central point of the new union.

"In the meantime Japanese have gone out of their way to let Britishers know that Great Britain has no important role in the situation. It has attacked British ships. There have been protests to China via Indochina and sent a note to France saying that Japan foresaw necessity for seizure of an island off the coast of Indo China to cut off Indo China's communication with the sea if France does not stop. France stopped.

"Further, about two weeks ago Japan got tired of the thriving business done by France in sending arms and munitions to China via Indo-China and sent a note to France saying that Japan foresaw necessity for seizure of an island off the coast of Indo China to cut off Indo China's communication with the sea if France does not stop. France stopped.

"It would seem that Japan has apparently chosen the right time to take what she wants. From the financial and economic aspects of the situation, there might be another story in this Far Eastern situation. It is said that Japan can't go on, that she is almost ruined financially now but the military powers will not listen and continue to push into China. There are those who believe that while Japan may be able to control and exploit what she has taken she is risking a great deal. That remains to be seen.

"There are those who ask why Russia has not entered this Sino-Japanese conflict. Some persons believe she is playing a waiting game, believing that the more Japan weakens herself conquering China,

Name Judges to Select Best Decorated Homes

Menasha — Judges of the first Christmas home lighting contest, sponsored by the Menasha Garden club, Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Businessmen's Community association, are Kenneth Corbett, executive secretary, Appleton Chamber of Commerce; Carl Christensen, director of Neenah Vocational school, and Miss Merle Rasmussen, landscape architect for the Rasmussen nurseries, Oshkosh, according to the committee in charge.

The committee encouraged citizens to enter the contest and offered suggestions for outdoor illumination. Artistic coloring and arrangement of lights will count most in making the awards; design and originality will count 30 points and Christmas appeal will count the final 20 points.

"Most people illuminate the interior of their homes, or at least light up a tree, to greet friends with holiday cheer. But what about the passerby?" the committee in charge questions.

"Why not focus attention on the entrance of your home? Place in nearby shrubbery red and green floodlights. The spirit of Christmas will be reflected in the soft, warm light covering the entire front of the house.

"If you prefer candles in your windows, try making them your own. Cardboard tubes with a small Christmas tree electric light at the top of each tube will give the required flame effect. The candles can be wired and set into boards cut to fit the front window sills. The tubes would necessarily be covered with red or green paper. Imitation candles can also be bought ready for use.

"Cut trees sprayed with white paint and illuminated in blue produce an effective sight. Paint for this purpose can be bought in most stores where paint is sold."

Defends Answer to Question

BY ELY CULBERTSON
At the very outset of the National Bridge Examination, recently completed, I warned readers that it was a test of bridge knowledge, not of "system knowledge." The latter, however, I have some of the folded cards similar to a visiting card, but my name alone appears on the face of these. However, we thought perhaps you might advise getting this same type of card printed with both our names on the front, and then if this is right, will you please suggest the wording? Also, there is one other confusing point. We would like to invite several good friends of my brother—the husband of the guest of honor. They do not know me very well and it is even possible that they may not recognize my recently acquired married name. We are wondering, therefore, if we should have the cards printed "Anne Jones Blank" instead of "Mrs. Andrew Blank."

Question No. 7: Both sides vulnerable. You are South. North, your partner, dealt and bid two no trump. East passed. Your holding is:
♠ Q 4 2 ♥ A J 6 ♦ K 7 3 ♣ 7 5 4 3.
What call do you make?
Answer: You should give a double raise. Bid four no trump. You would raise to three if you held only one king. The other honors you hold amply justify a slam try. Immediately after the publication of the answer the storm broke. I "had violated the principle laid down by myself on page 89 of the Gold Book." The sentence thrown in my face was:
"With more than one and one-half honor tricks the responder usually should try for a slam unless his hand, also, has 4-3-3-3 distribution."

I answered each individual protest, and now make public, that my answer did not violate any principle, either of the Culbertson system, or bridge itself. I do acknowledge and apologize for the poor phrasing of the excerpt, but it seems to me that any player who tries to memorize a so-called rule without attempting to understand the spirit behind it deserves whatever comes to him. The statement in the Gold Book cannot be taken literally, for the simple reason that it is ambiguous. Apparently I recommended that no slam try be made by the responder to a two no trump bid when he has the decided 4-3-3-3 distribution. Now, I ask you, how could I have meant such an absurdity? Responder might hold three honor tricks. Can it be thought that I still would recommend a mere raise to three no trump? I apologize for my rhetoric, but still feel that readers should be penalized for failure to give a mild slam try with the hand in question.

TODAY'S HAND
Match point duplicate.
North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A 10 7 5 3 2
♥ Q 8 4 3

WEST

EAST
♠ K 10 7 6 5
♥ A K 10 4 3 2
♦ A 9
♣ K 8 7 6 5

The bidding:
North East South West
Pass 1 diam. 1 spade 2 diam.
2 diam. 2 diam. 4 clubs Double
4 spades 5 diam. Pass Pass
5 spades 6 diam. Pass Pass

North's diamond cue bid was, of course, "phony," the idea being to discourage a diamond lead at an eventual spade contract.
West opened his singleton heart, not that he believed the alleged diamond cue bid. This led had far-reaching results. Declarer felt certain it was a singleton and, therefore, dared not take his normal trump finesse. He played the queen and, when West did not cover, went up with dummy's ace, dropping the singleton king. The spade ten then drew West's remaining trump. Now, declarer went out for an absolute top. He led dummy's heart nine and, when East followed low, rambled on his own judgment to the extent of letting the nine ride. It held and the opponents never took another trick, since dummy's heart suit now was solid and, after discarding one diamond, declarer had two trumps left with which to ruff the dummy's two diamonds.

My Neighbor Says—

Sweeten your fruit pies with sirup made with 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, boiled 5 minutes and prepare before pies are made.

To make fine cracker crumbs for breading, put crackers in the oven and let them get brown and crisp. Roll with a rolling pin so they will be fine and soft.

The proper arrangement of kitchen equipment saves time. Kitchen tools, cleaning and laundry supplies should be kept in good order and well arranged in relation to the way the work has to be done.

PERMANENT WAVE SEASON ARRIVES
Permanent waves are brushed these days and Fay Wray brushes her new coiffure under in a modified page-boy style.

Test Curl is Important to Permanent Wave Success

BY ELSIE PIERCE
It's the social season, the shopping season and very likely the permanent wave season, particularly if your hair grows slowly and you had a permanent sometime during the summer. If you are ready for a wave, you ought to have it now. Yes, right in the midst of all the rush and tussle. A new permanent has pretty much the same psychological effect on a woman as a new hat; and if it is a good wave finished off with a flattering new coiffure then she feels and looks a new person.

You probably feel you are pressed for time. But, to be a bit selfish about it, and don't crowd your appointments or plans on the day of your permanent. It may take from two to four hours from first shampoo to final set and drying, depending upon the method and the length and thickness of your hair, also the success of the first test curl or two.

Speaking of test curls, the better beauty salons make them part and parcel of the permanent. These are the salons who employ the finest experts, yet these experienced operators take no chances of error in judgment. A good operator can judge hair and heating time but he takes the test curl to confirm his judgment. Hair that is dyed, bleached, gray or graying, hair that is coarse, hair that is fine as a baby's are no more "problem heads" than perfectly normal hair. In fact many seeming normal heads are very deceiving and operators may discover that a wave will not take quite as readily as anticipated. The test curl tells the story—predicts the permanent's success.

Other Requisites
So, one of the things to insist upon is: the test curl. Other requisites: a reputable shop, a good operator, a well-known method, whether it be machine or machineless; the proper pads and solutions—in other words the entire process.

authentically followed through; no bootleg'd supplies; no pads used over again. Look at the pads that are used on your head. Look for the name stamped on them. Make sure there is no substitution. You're paying for the original; be sure you get it. By the way, a good permanent is something you do have to pay a price for. Don't be tempted by a bargain wave, no matter how strained your budget.

My bulletin, "Your Permanent—Long May It Wave" is yours for a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. It outlines care of the hair before and after the wave, as well as the requisites for a good wave.

The Roman Pantheon

Rome, Italy: On my way to Rome, I was told that the train would surely be on time. The trains I took from Switzerland to Milan, and from Milan to Florence, had been an hour or two late in each case.

I did get to Rome just about on time. People say Mussolini has ordered the trains to run on schedule, and the railroad workers seem to feel he can "check up" more closely at his capital city.

The Pantheon as it Looks Today

Italy has a king—Victor Emmanuel—but he has little, if any, power. His palace is close to the hotel at which I am staying. There are a few guards around it, but not many. The king may be called "Italy's Forgotten Man."

Mussolini, the real ruler, is supposed to be trying to bring back the "glory" of ancient Rome, or some of it. At least, long ago, the Romans had power over Spain, France, Greece, Palestine, Egypt and other lands.

Rome contains many remains of the old Romans. These include the Coliseum, the Forum and the Pantheon.

The Roman Pantheon was built in 27 B. C. It was damaged when struck by lightning, but later was repaired.

The word "Pantheon" means "all of the gods." The Pantheon of Rome was at one time a home of most of the gods worshipped in the Roman world. At least it contained their statues, and people went there to pray to them.

The Pantheon was a place of splendor. Instead of a roof of a common kind, it has a dome which glittered with gilded bronze. Indeed, the building was mainly a gigantic dome.

The building still stands, and the dome is the largest (but not the highest) in the world. It is close to 140 feet wide on the inside, making it wider than the famous domes of St. Peter's church. In some places the walls of the Pantheon are 20 feet thick.

In the year 608, the Pantheon was turned into a Christian church, and the statues of gods, and goddesses were taken out of it.

When St. Peter's church was being built three centuries ago, the bronze from the dome of the Pantheon was taken away. The bronze weighed 430,000 pounds, and part of it was used in making the bronze pillars for the canopy over the high altar of St. Peter's.

Looking at the Pantheon today, we may think of the time when the Romans went there to sacrifice to Jupiter and Juno, to Mars and Venus, to Neptune and Minerva. The opening at the top of the dome is 28 feet wide, and supplies a fair amount of light.

Children Influenced By Parental Attitudes

BY ANGELO PATRI
What a parent says, even what he does, is not as important to the growth and development of his child, as the way he thinks about the matter. It is possible to say, "Good enough," in a tone that convinces the child that you think him a condemned failure. It is possible to praise virtue and cause a child to think that it is something shameful. The feeling behind the words does the talking.

A PARTY FOR A NEW SISTER-IN-LAW

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend and I would like to give a large luncheon party at little tables, followed by bridge, in honor of my new sister-in-law, and we are not altogether sure about sending invitations. I have some of the folded cards similar to a visiting card, but my name alone appears on the face of these. However, we thought perhaps you might advise getting this same type of card printed with both our names on the front, and then if this is right, will you please suggest the wording? Also, there is one other confusing point. We would like to invite several good friends of my brother—the husband of the guest of honor. They do not know me very well and it is even possible that they may not recognize my recently acquired married name. We are wondering, therefore, if we should have the cards printed "Anne Jones Blank" instead of "Mrs. Andrew Blank."

Answer: No. Your name should appear as Mrs. Andrew Blank. And since you have these cards, the name of the other hostess could be written under your own. On the inside write:

To meet
Mrs. John Brown, Jr.
at 1 o'clock
Sat., Dec. 13

Place: (If not at the address on face of card, or if there is none appearing.)

R. s. v. p. (at lower left)
It will not be necessary to explain who you are though you can in any particular instance write (see Mary Brown) under your name or beyond it. But since your reason for inviting them, and their chief reason for accepting, is that the party is given for Mrs. John Brown, Jr. it is very simple, should any one not recognize your name, to ask young Mrs. Brown who you are.

Dear Mrs. Post: At a recent church dinner we called upon the clergyman's wife to say grace. Her husband was not present, or we would have called upon him, naturally. But now the question is, being discussed as to whether it was not out of place to call upon a woman when there were men present.

Answer: It was quite natural to suppose that the clergyman's wife would be best prepared to ask grace, unless, one of the men present was a clergyman. To call upon a man not accustomed to saying grace might have embarrassed him greatly.

Try steaming Brussels sprouts, broccoli, celery, asparagus, onions, carrots, cauliflower or turnips. They will keep their shapes better and won't lose so much flavor. They also will cook in less time than they would if they were boiled. Use a regular steamer or put the vegetable in a large strainer or colander and suspend it in a kettle of boiling water an inch above the water line.

A solution of ammonia and water, a teaspoon of ammonia to a pint of water, will remove iodine stains from white linen. Soak in the solution and stain will quickly disappear.

from the one who dislikes them. And they will know.

After establishing communication with them through mutual liking, you have to make sure that you believe firmly in what you teach them. You cannot have reservations. Children do not need to be told the faith that is in you. They feel it. They know it. What you would teach a child to be, you must first be in yourself. What you are is what you teach.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Few Married Folks Carry Out Original Intentions

BY DOROTHY DIX

Virtually all brides and bridegrooms go to the altar with their hearts and heads filled with high ideals and noble purposes. Theirs is going to be the perfect marriage. They are going to make a home that will be a place of peace and happiness. They are never going to quarrel or take each other for granted. They are never going to let the fire of love go out on their hearthstone for want of tending. They are going to make their marriage a grand and glorious success.

That few couples live up to the good intentions with which they started out is only too sadly true, and if most men and women after five, ten, fifteen years of marriage would make a check of themselves to see what kind of husbands and wives they have really made they would get the shock of their lives. They would be amazed to realize that they had done pretty nearly all of the things that they had promised themselves never to do, and left undone the things that they most intended to do.

When John married he never doubted he would always be the perfect lover. He would never let Mary become one of those pathetic, heart-hungry women who are so starved for affection that they grow bitter or flirtatious. He would tell her every day how beautiful and wonderful she was and that she was the only woman in the world to him. He would pay her the little attentions on which women set such inordinate value. He would never become the kind of husband who treats his wife as if she were just a piece of useful household furniture.

But if John checked up on himself as a husband how surprised he would be to find it had been years and years since he had even thought of Mary as a Lady Love or paid her a compliment or given her a kiss that wasn't just a perfunctory peck on the cheek flavored with ham and eggs instead of passion. Of course, he still loves her, but she would have to be a mind-reader to find it out.

When John married Mary and took her life into his hands he intended to make it happy, but when he stops to ask himself what he has done for a husband he is appalled. He has fed and clothed her, but she has earned her board and keep a thousand times over by her work for him. For the rest he hasn't considered her pleasure much, or felt called upon to entertain her or amuse her or even to talk to her of an evening. And he has made home a place where he could indulge his tempers and his grouches and vent on her his irritability he dared not show his boss or his clients or his customers. Really, when he comes to think of it, he can't recall anything that he has done to make marriage a picnic for his wife.

When John married Mary he never dreamed that he could be anything but gentle and tender and chivalrous to her, and when he checks up on his conduct to her he finds out that he hasn't even been polite. He hasn't hesitated to tell her that she has lost her good looks and got fat, or that she is a fool and doesn't know what she is talking about. He swore at the altar to endow her with all of his earthly goods, but he has been a tightwad who has never given her a dollar to spend as she pleased. Taking it all in all, if John is honest with himself when he audits his accounts with his wife, he doesn't see where she has got much percentage out of marriage with him.

When Mary checks up on her performance as a wife as compared with her girlish ideal of the kind of a wife she was going to be, she is in the red up to her neck. She was always going to keep herself glamorous in her husband's eyes and she has slumped down into a frump who only dresses up for company and goes around home looking like heck. She was going to keep romance alive and be her husband's sweetheart, and she hasn't told him since their honeymoon how big and strong and handsome he is and how proud she is of him. Maybe she loves him, but she doesn't know it. So far as he can tell she merely regards him as a cash register.

She was going to be her husband's companion, but she has never

What a pity that husbands and wives do not check up on themselves every now and then and see whether they are making good on their bridal intentions. It would save a lot of divorces.

New London—The development of skiing as a popular sport in Wisconsin and this section was discussed for members of the New London Lions club by Harold Grinden, Duluth, past secretary of the National Ski association, in an impromptu talk at the luncheon meeting at the Elwood hotel yesterday noon.

He complimented the club on its work in developing the hill to its full possibilities and pointed to the popular growth of skiing throughout the nation. The club also voted to make application for the 1939 Lions state bowling tournament.

Deny Request for Street Extension Across Railroad

Public Service Commission Decides Against Quincy Street Project

New London — The petition of New London for an extension of E. Quincy street across the Chicago and North Western railway tracks has been denied by the Wisconsin Public Service commission according to a communication received yesterday by Giles H. Putnam, city attorney. A hearing on the matter was held at Madison several weeks ago.

The commission in its decision stated that the proposed project did not show sufficient promotion of public safety or convenience to make it advisable for the grade crossing to be established.

The city petitioned for the crossing on three counts: to eliminate a dead end street, give easier and shorter access to the city pumping station, and permit the extension of water and sewer mains across the railroad right of way.

Objections listed by the railroad company were: 1, creation of a new public grade crossing to its detriment without offsetting benefits to the petitioner; 2, an 8-inch water main now crossing the right of way and an easement would be given the city for any additional water or sewer mains it may wish to extend at that point; 3, the city should police the street more adequately to prevent annoyances to residents rather than demand a new crossing; 4, the proposed crossing would interfere with switches and train movements; 5, there is no urgent need for another access to the city pumping station.

City Attorney and Aldermen Resign Posts at Waupaca

Major Urges L. D. Smith To Stay Until End Of Term

Waupaca. Resignations from two city officials were read at Tuesday's regular meeting of the council Tuesday evening—those of Alderman Roy Rasmus of the Fourth ward, and of City Attorney L. D. Smith. Mr. Rasmus' resignation was accepted, but that of the city attorney was not. The mayor requested that Mr. Smith be urged to continue in office until the expiration of his term May 1.

His resignation at this time would mean a serious loss to the city in view of the fact that the Waupaca utility valuation case is to be heard next month, the mayor maintained. Mr. Smith has served as city attorney continuously since May, 1910, the year the sewerage system made its appearance in Waupaca through the determined efforts of the present mayor, then alderman, F. R. Fisher who declared "it was going through if he had to raise the money by subscription from the business men."

Although it was not brought out at the meeting, it is understood that Alderman Rasmus, a contractor, resigned in order to be in a position to enter a bid on the new school project.

Relief bills for November totaled $869.91; city relief, $516.50 and transient, $353.41. A bill for gasoline amounting to $1 was questioned and Supervisor of Relief L. L. Churchill explained that he bought the gasoline for a tramp so "he would get out and go home."

Meals for tramps amounted to $65 for the month showing that the "tramp business is getting heavy," according to Alderman Willys Holmes who felt that something should be done about it. His suggestion was that a wood yard be provided for anyone in quest of a meal and again Mr. Churchill explained that five cords of wood had been purchased that must be sawed by the tramps before a meal would be furnished. Alderman Stanley Weatherbee offered the suggestion that before a transient be allowed a meal that he receive an order from the city clerk. The matter was finally referred by the mayor to the relief committee, which will draw up a resolution for improving the situation and report at the next meeting.

this week. Angove is recovering from a skull fracture which he received in an auto accident near Fremont Thanksgiving day. He was in a critical condition for a time.

THE CHARACTERS

Nina is trying to escape from her desperate love for her step-father by marrying David.

Richard, the charming, well-tailored stepfather, returns her love and resents her marriage.

Honey, Nina's gay, plump, youthful mother, is crazy about Richard, her recently acquired husband.

David, a young auto salesman who adores Nina, elopes with her—at Nina's suggestion.

CHAPTER 19

"You're Poor Now, Baby"

Nina and David drove to the Pickwick Arms, in Greenwich. Then David became unexpectedly serious for a moment.

"Darling, no matter how nastily I may think your stepfather put it, he's right in one thing. I'm not up to you. I know it, and I want to do everything in my power to pull myself up and be worthy of you."

She tried to stop him but he went on: "Somewhere in my make-up I have a finer sensibility or two, and I realize all the splendid things about you, Nina," he said simply. "I—I worship you."

He looked at her with all the worship he felt in his eyes.

Nina regarded his fine, clean-cut face and thought, "I should hate Richard I should hate him."

And then she was in David's arms.

The next morning, David had a few things on his mind.

"It seems a vile thing to mention, Mrs. Day, but we really ought to think of plans, a little . . . you ought to wire your mother, oughtn't you? I've only got one old grouchy uncle in Syracuse to bother about. And we've got to decide what to do with ourselves."

Suddenly, David looked overwhelmed at something.

"Gosh, Nina, do you realize that you're poor now, baby, poor?"

Nina laughed at the concerned expression on David's face.

"I knew a nursery rhyme, once, that said: 'Poor in . . . something or other, Rich in . . . something else.'"

"Well, now, that's quite comforting, isn't it?"

Decayed Twigs Make Feed for New Trees

Twigs and branches too small for fuel have their own value in the well managed farm woodland, the soil conservation service points out in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

They should be left to decay and help feed the coming crop of trees. To pile and burn them is as wasteful as burning the straw from a grain crop. Farmers who are double-cropping the wooded areas—for timber and fuel and also for wild game—may want to pile some of the small branches. Brush piles are favorite refuges for many birds and many varieties of small game. Other waste material, well scattered, will decay and return to the soil as a spongy humus that puts soil into the best condition to absorb rainfall, thus helping prevent erosion and providing needed raw material for thrifty forest growth.

Apple Crop Above Average in State For Current Year

Estimate Production at 2,080,000 Bushels; Double Harvest for 1936

If the old saying, "an apple a day keeps the doctor away," is true, then the doctors are going to have a pretty dull winter.

Wisconsin's apple crop is estimated at about double that harvested last year, and the production for the nation is also much above average, according to the crop reporting service in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent. Apple production in this county is largely confined to the farmer's own use.

Recent estimates indicate that the state's production this year is equal to more than two-thirds of a bushel per person living in the state. This means a production of about 2,080,000 bushels. According to this estimate, the apple crop in the state this year is more than 17 per cent larger than the average harvest of the five years, 1928-32. One reason for the large production compared with a year ago is that 1936 was an off year for apple production, reports the crop reporting service.

It is expected that the total apple crop this year in the United States will be about 211 million bushels, compared with over 117.5 million bushels harvested last year. According to the United States crop reporting board, the average production of the five years, 1928-32, was over 164 million bushels.

The board reports that large quantities of apples in all sections of the country are being utilized by cider mills and processors and because of the low prices to growers a large portion of the lower grade fruit probably will be left on the trees or wasted.

HOW TO WIN

1. Read the ads in this Christmas "Gift Selector" carefully. In the two open spaces (top and bottom) of the illustrated cartoon figures above—write, type or print what you think the little figure and Santa are saying to each other (not over fifteen words in each space). A new cartoon picture will appear daily in the space above until Christmas.

2. The conversation must contain the name of an advertiser whose ad appears here, and something about any gift that he advertises. Only ads in this "Gift Selector" and the names of the advertisers are considered.

3. Yes, it is necessary to clip out the cartoon illustration to fill in the words you wish to write in the two open spaces (balloons). Do not color or decorate. The cleverness and originality in the way you word the conversation is what counts.

4. The first two daily prizes are in the form of $1 gift orders on advertisers herein, and theatre tickets to the other five winners.

5. Yes, you can submit as many entries daily as you wish but each must be written in the space of a separate cartoon picture. Send same to Judges of Christmas "Gift Selector" c/o Post-Crescent.

New York — (P) — Buying support for rails and steels aided other groups in the stock market today and leading shares pushed up fractions to 2 points or more.

The rally came belatedly after a mixed opening, but gained force as the afternoon wore on.

An encouraging report that retail sales in the New York metropolitan district were not falling as short of last year's figures had been expected helped merchandising shares.

Transactions approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Exporters' agriculturalists were stocking up against next year's needs. Chain store sales in the middle west reflected increased buying power in the rural sections.

Active and higher in the stock market were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, J. C. Case, International Harvester, Anaconda, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power, Light, Johns-Manville, U. S. Gypsum, Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Eastman Kodak, and Loew's.

Two's Company

By MARGARET GUION HEZOG

"...making a noise to shut off her thoughts."

"Where are we going? Shall we be gay and musical, or serious and dramatic? Orchestra, or second balcony? Formal or everyday?"

"We'll compromise," said David. "We'll sit in the first balcony, but take a taxi. That will get us off to a good start. And let's see a revue. I don't feel serious and dramatic tonight."

Celebrating

They took elaborate pains with their gowns, for this first date of a married couple.

Nina wanted David to be proud of her. She brushed her hair until it shone. She put on her lipstick carefully, just enough and not too much. And no high-colored nail polish for David. She just had a feeling he might not like it. And she wanted to make up to him in every way for her disloyalty.

The dress she chose made David open his eyes wide. It was simple black crepe, trimly cut here and there to fit Nina's slim waist, and to flare, ever so slightly at the hem. It was expensive simplicity, but David couldn't know that.

"You should wear black a lot, angel," was all he said. He wasn't like Richard. . . . not a bit like Richard.

But from her tasseled turban, to her suede opera pumps, her fair hair and skin shining against the black, Nina knew that every detail was perfect even if David didn't. She knew Richard would have thought so, too.

In the taxi, David and Nina acted like school children on an outing. They watched the meter eagerly, and once when they were hedged in by traffic, Nina wanted to get out and walk, but David wouldn't let her.

After the revue, which had been just exactly what they wanted to see, and they were on their way home in another taxi. David held her close.

DISPLAYS HER KNITTING

London — Princess Elizabeth, who some day may reign over the British empire, is a "graduate" knitter.

She and her sister, Princess Margaret, for some time knitted scarves in the "one plain one pearl" style, but Princess Elizabeth has graduated to baby jackets, while her sister still does scarves.

At the recent exhibition of Queen Mary's Needlework Guild Elizabeth sent a pale blue baby's jacket and Margaret contributed a salmon pink wool scarf.
